WEATHER

Rain and scattered thunder-showers Wednesday diminishing to scattered showers Wednesday night and Thursday.

EDITORIAL

Questions about what investment opportunities will be available to Warren County residents will probably be answered at an Oct. 1 meeting.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Temperatures will average below normal, with highs in the lower 60s and lower 70s and lows in the upper 40s and low 50s. Rain and scattered thunder-showers Wednesday diminishing to scattered showers Wednesday night and Thursday. It will remain cool through Saturday, becoming warmer around the first of next week.

PENNSYLVANIA

Up to five inches of rain fell throughout central Pennsylvania causing at least one death and flooding of some streams and roads.

A Harrisburg Negro attorney tells a Senate subcommittee the American "system" has helped to promulgate an attitude that blacks are inferior to whites.

Three men who spent 16 years in jail for murder have been freed because a court ruled the alleged victim died of a heart attack.

Pity the poor guy who goes out to start his car at 6 a.m., finds the battery dead and calls for service. Who shows up but a woman.

NEW YORK STATE

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appoints a fellow Republican, Rep. Charles E. Goodell, to Robert F. Kennedy's Senate seat.

THE NATION

President Johnson strongly defends his Vietnam policy and rejects complete halt to bombing in North Vietnam, saying there will be no surrender "on the installment plan as some have suggested." He also warns Russia that the U.S. will never tolerate the use of force or threat of force in areas of common responsibility.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk indicates North Korea is demanding not only an apology but a promise that U.S. ships will stay out of the Sea of Japan as the price for release of the USS Pueblo and its crew.

Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas is invited to return before the Senate Judiciary Committee for further questioning on his nomination to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren.

The House sends the Senate a $21.6 billion military procurement bill including authorization for sales of surplus weapons to local police and fire departments.

Striking garbage workers in Georgia are ordered back to work after a dramatic move by civil rights leaders and a union official who are arrested for blocking a garbage truck.

A tentative settlement has been announced in a teacher's strike that delayed the opening of New York City public schools for two days for nearly 1.1 million pupils.

Hubert H. Humphrey arrived deep in the heart of Texas and found it cool.

THE WORLD

Enemy troops invade Tay Ninh City in strength and heavy fighting is under way for control of the city of 200,000 which lies on a major invasion route to Saigon.

Czechoslovakia's Communist party and government leaders appeal to their self-exiled countrymen in the West to return home despite Soviet occupation.

SPORTS

Some observations on the local and area football picture are current this morning. There are a few predictions included, a kind word for guesses.

There's an interesting story on Temple University, a little school in a football sense, that does attract good players. Terry Scallie, a former Warren resident, is a quarterback on the Temple squad.

Although the stock car racing season is over, the melody lingers on. There's a little story that Bob Schnars tells that might make you wonder.

Two ancient mariners of the National Football League have been turned out to pasture. Lou Groza has been cut by the Cleveland Browns and will stay on as a kicking coach. Jim Taylor has called it a day with the New Orleans Saints as a player and will take a front office job with the club.

Lt. Arthur Ashe Jr. is probably glad to get away from competitive tennis for a time. He played 162 games in less than 24 hours during the U.S. Open Tennis Tourney.

Arthur Daley has an engaging column on Al Lopez, currently serving another hitch as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Rusk Says More Than Apology Demanded for Release of Pueblo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk indicated Tuesday that North Korea is demanding not only an apology but a promise that U.S. ships will stay out of the Sea of Japan as the price for release of the USS Pueblo and its crew.

"It is not just a question of an apology," Rusk told newsmen. "It is my understanding they have asked for a good many things including commitments about further action that would involve the high seas in the Sea of Japan."

Rusk spoke to newsmen on emerging from a three-hour briefing of the House Foreign Affairs Committee on world problems.

He told them there is no independent evidence whatsoever that the Pueblo violated its sailing orders on Jan. 23. Those orders were to remain outside of the 12-mile limit.

North Korea has claimed the Pueblo moved within seven miles of the nearest land, the port of Wonsan, when it was seized by armed North Korean patrol craft.

Widely scattered reports and broadcasts from North Korea itself had built up expectations over the weekend that the Pueblo might be released in connection with the 20th anniversary of North Korea's existence as a Communist state.

Rusk made the disclosure at about the same time the State Department, in a carefully considered statement, declared the seizure of the Navy intelligence ship seven months ago was an illegal act which does not call for an apology.

There have been repeated reports that the United States planned to apologize and the statement was in response to these.

The State Department spokesman, press officer Robert J. McCloskey, said that if negotiations to obtain the release of the crew of 82 and the ship are to prove successful "we have an obligation to keep the negotiations private."

However, Rusk shed a little more information on the negotiations, which have been stalled since last January.

State Department officials related his remarks to North Korea's repeated and insistent demands for three actions by the United States. They are: an admission that the Pueblo was guilty of violating North Korea's territorial waters; an apology; and a promise that there would be no violations in the future.

Charles Goodell Wins Kennedy's Senate Seat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller reached into the Republican ranks Tuesday and appointed 42-year-old Charles E. Goodell, Western New York congressman, to the Senate seat vacated by the death of Robert F. Kennedy, a Democrat.

Goodell, a nine-year member of the House, has played a key role in developing legislation aimed at improving conditions in the cities. He has taken positions on issues in the House that have earned him the labels of both conservative and liberal.

At the GOP national convention last month, he pressed unsuccessfully for the nomination of New York Mayor John V. Lindsay as a vice-presidential candidate. Goodell also is largely responsible for inserting many of Rockefeller's ideas on urban problems and their solutions into the party platform.

Appearing with Rockefeller, and Republican Jacob K. Javits, New York's senior senator, Goodell described Kennedy as "a man of unique talents who can never be replaced."

Goodell promised to strive to solve the problems of urban blight, mass transportation, housing, special education for the poor, air pollution and water contamination.

Under questioning by newsmen, he expressed support for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas, whose appointment by President Johnson to the office of U.S. Chief Justice has met with strong Senate opposition.

On the Vietnam war, Goodell renewed his contention that the U.S. should not be engaged in a land war "10,000 miles away."

He said in reply to a question that he thought any suspension of American bombing of North Vietnam should be qualified. He suggested the possibility of a 30-day period of suspension evaluated on a daily basis.

Johnson Rejects Complete Halt To Viet Bombing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — President Johnson rejected calls for a complete halt to bombing in North Vietnam Tuesday and pledged there would be no surrender "on the installment plan, as some have suggested."

The President also lashed out at growing isolationism in his keynote address to the American Legion's national convention. His address drew frequent heavy applause and a standing ovation.

Johnson said U.S. troops were sent to Vietnam originally to prevent aggression, protect our friends, remain true to our obligations and win a peace. "We believed that to be very much in America's national interest then, and we believe it to be in America's interest now," he declared.

The President pounded the podium for emphasis frequently, one time declaring the United States would not go along with those who suggest we could withdraw troops from below the Demilitarized Zone and turn that part of South Vietnam over to the North Vietnamese.

President Warns Russia U.S. Won't Tolerate Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson warned Russia Tuesday night that the United States never will tolerate the use of force or the threat of force in areas of common responsibility such as Berlin.

"It is never too late to choose the path of reason," the President said. "Every man of sanity will hope the Soviets act now before some new turn of events throws the world back to the grim confrontations of Stalin's time."

Kids Don't Have Fee For Fitness Certificate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of American school children pass tough physical tests to win a certificate signed by President Johnson but don't get their award because they cannot pay a 50-cent fee.

An official of the President's Council on Physical Fitness in Washington said Tuesday the fee was imposed at White House insistence to prevent the $35,000-a-year physical fitness program from becoming a "federal giveaway."

V. L. Nicholson, director of information for the program, made the statement after Miami school officials said 107 Miami children passed the tests but did not get certificates because of the fee.

Nicholson said 71,000 pupils won the award last year—about eight per cent of the youngsters who try. He said he didn't know precisely how many others did not get certificates because of the fee requirement "but Miami is not an isolated instance."

"We had the President's approval to set up the program but there is no appropriation. The White House said we can't make this a federal giveaway," Nicholson said.

Voters in Nine States Pick Party Nominees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Voters in nine states picked party nominees Tuesday for the November elections, and in one instance—in Vermont—went ahead and pretty much decided the general election result as well.

Sen. George D. Aiken, Vermont's greatest vote-getter, won re-nomination handily in the Republican primary over school teacher William K. Tutts, the first Republican challenger since Aiken won the seat in 1941. Then Aiken also was given the Democratic nomination, by

11,000 Attend Rites For Erie Archbishop

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Some 11,000 persons of all faiths, including 16 Roman Catholic archbishops and bishops from Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and New Mexico, attended Tuesday funeral services for Archbishop John Mark Gannon.

A small group of the cleric escorted Archbishop Gannon's body to a crypt beneath the main altar at St. Peter's Cathedral in Erie, after a 95 minute requiem mass.

Over 1,000 persons attended masses held earlier Tuesday. Church dignitaries included Philadelphia's Archbishop John Cardinal Krol, chief celebrant of the funeral mass, and auxiliary Bishops Gerald McDevitt and John Graham.

Others were Pittsburgh Bishops Vincent Leonard and John McDowell and Bishop Stephen Kocisko of the Pittsburgh Byzantine Rite.

Archbishop James P. Davis of Santa Fe, N.M., represented the National Seminary at Montezuma, N.M., which Archbishop Gannon founded in 1937.

Gannon, bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Erie for 50 years, died last week at the age of 91. He was the founder of Gannon College in Erie and a leader in religious education.

Garbage Workers Ordered Back

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Striking garbage workers were ordered back to work by a state court Tuesday after a dramatic move of support by civil rights leaders and a union official who were arrested for blocking a garbage truck.

"Restraining orders don't collect trash," said Morton Shapiro, negotiator for American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union.

He commented at a news conference after Superior Court Judge Luther Alverson granted a city request for an order restraining workers "from failing to report for duty," or preventing other employees from doing so.

"I intend to be on the picket line Wednesday morning," said Shapiro, freed from jail on $100 bond after taking part in an early morning demonstration.

Shapiro went to jail briefly with the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). Abernathy is successor to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was assassinated last April 4 during a similar garbage strike he was supporting at Memphis, Tenn.

King's brother, the Rev. A. D. King, also was arrested. Several other SCLC officials were arrested with Shapiro and Abernathy when they joined a group of striking Negro garbage workers in a sit-down to block a truck at the Hill street sanitation substation. They were charged with blocking a driveway.

Eighty persons were arrested during the protest activities of the strike that began Sept. 3. Workers are demanding $2.50 an hour minimum pay. The minimum now ranges from $1.66 to $2.05 an hour, with 5 year tops from $2.05 to $2.53. Most of the nearly 1,000 workers are Negroes, and most are on strike. A city offer of 13 per cent raise next Jan. 1 has been rejected.

Abernathy, emerging from jail after signing his $25 bond, said SCLC and other supporters would intensify their campaign of demonstrations.

'ANDY'S SPEAKS OUT
PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Charles Correll, 78, one half of the radio team of "Amos 'n' Andy," says he's "for Negroes getting out of the mess they're in, and I'd be glad to help if I could."

A bricklayer before he became "Andy," Correll, who was born on Hancock Street in Peoria, visited his two brothers and a sister who still live in his hometown.

WGN in Chicago was the radio station where Correll and Freeman Gosden (Amos) got their start.

"We worked for two years for nothing just to get going," Correll said.

"My feelings about the Negro are like they are about everyone else whether he's brown, red, yellow, or whatever. I'm for any gains they can make constructively."

National Convention when he put a credit card in a credentials machine, was ahead of Na-shua Mayor Dennis Sullivan, a write-in candidate for Congress, Republican Rep. James Cleveland easily held off the challenge of Hawley Chase, a 91-year-old retired school principal, in another New Hampshire congressional primary.

Leading Texas Democrats Snub Humphrey During Campaign Visit

HOUSTON (AP)— Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived deep in the heart of Texas Tuesday night and found it cool. Neither Gov. John Connally nor Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D. Tex., were on hand to welcome the vice president as Humphrey brought his quest for the presidency into the Lone Star state.

Before arriving in Houston the vice president made one of his sharpest assaults on Richard M. Nixon, the man, and his strongest appeal for support from Senator Eugene J. McCarthy.

Texas, with its rich lode of electoral votes, is one of the states Humphrey intends to concentrate on in his strategy to defeat Nixon, his Republican opponent. But the only top Texas Democratic politician present for the Humphrey arrival was Ben Barnes, speaker of the Texas House and Democratic nominee for Lieutenant governor.

There was some question whether Connally had turned down an invitation to campaign with the vice president but an aide said the governor simply was busy at the state capital in Austin with paper work.

Yarborough had endorsed McCarthy before the National Democratic Convention.

In Los Angeles earlier, the vice president acknowledged that McCarthy "has serious problems about the support of my candidacy."

But Humphrey insisted that McCarthy as well as other dissident Democrats have to choose among Nixon, Gov. George Wallace and himself.

And Humphrey said he couldn't believe "my friend" McCarthy would want Wallace to decide the election or to have Nixon as president.

Humphrey told a breakfast

HELPFUL HOUSE

HYDEN, Ky. (AP) — John Waage asked an elderly man how to reach the home of a friend he wanted to visit.

"Well," the old man said, "you go up a block and turn right and you'll meet the place where he lives coming to you on the left."

meeting of businessmen for Humphrey that a central issue of the campaign was which of the two major party candidates "can you trust?"

Humphrey said that the decisions of the next president would affect "the lives of children yet unborn."

Thus, he said, the voters should carefully study the record of both men — himself and Nixon — as an indication "of what you can expect, particularly under times of stress . . . and whoever is president will live under continuous stress."

Humphrey, obviously referring to Nixon but without naming him, asked, "How will he react under strain?"

"Will the new coating wear off and the old substance come through? or will that thin veneer of the most recent political cosmetic treatment remain?"

Humphrey told the businessmen they would have to ask themselves that question, but he added:

"I don't come to you as the new Humphrey, I am just Hubert Humphrey, the one you have known for a long time."

Humphrey, in an interview on television station KNBC, again proposed that the candidates make a joint statement to make clear to Hanoi that it would gain no more with a new president than in negotiations now.

Humphrey also expressed belief that if it can be shown that a bombing halt produce more substantive talks in the Paris negotiations, the U.S. bombing would be stopped.

Humphrey also acknowledged some risks in what he called "the politics of confrontation" — question and answer sessions with audiences.

It was during such a session in Denver on Monday that Humphrey said he would have been able to run on a Vietnam plank proposed by doves at the Democratic National Convention, but which was voted down after one of the convention's key battles.

Humphrey explained that he had announced earlier that he would support whomever the Democratic party nominated — including war critic McCarthy.

He noted that the minority plank called for an unconditional cessation of the bombing, but at the same time spoke of protecting the American troops.

Thus, Humphrey went on, "it sort of painted over some of the real problems we have."

"I thought the majority plank . . . was the better of the two."

And, he added, it would have been more difficult for him to run on the minority plank and had he been forced to he would have had to make elaborations of his own.

As for McCarthy's support, Humphrey said, "I will just rely on what I consider his basic decency and good will."

Concert Assn. Mails Cards To Members

Season membership cards were mailed yesterday to members of the Warren Concert Association who enrolled last spring during the annual one-week membership campaign.

The first concert is scheduled for Monday, October 7 featuring Helga and Klaus Storck from Germany, a Harp and Cello duo.

No additional memberships to the series are available except for those persons who have moved into the area during the summer and, therefore, did not have the chance to join last May.

Newcomers to Warren may become members by calling the chairman, Mrs. Sally Sokolski at 723-4234 or the association headquarters, 726-0292. No single admission tickets are ever sold to the individual concerts.

The first program on October 7 features two of Europe's outstanding instrumentalists. The Storcks will be performing solos for their respective instruments along with several duos written for this unusual yet perfectly matched combination. Mr. Storck will be performing on his famous Stradivarius cello (1690).

The other concert dates this season include the American duo-piano team of Stecher and Horowitz on Saturday, November 2; the Princeton Chamber Orchestra with Janice Harsanyi, soloist on Wednesday, March 19; and the Norman Luboff Choir on Wednesday, April 30.

All concerts will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Warren High School Auditorium.

Association president Harry Summers announces also a reciprocal membership agreement with the Titusville Concert Series. Anyone belonging to the Warren series may also use the ticket to attend the six Titusville concerts.

Chautauqua County Voters Reject Charter Proposal

JAMESTOWN — Chautauqua County voters went to the polls Tuesday and rejected the proposed county charter by a large majority. Under the conditions of Tuesday's election, the charter had to be approved by the combined vote of the cities of Jamestown and Dunkirk, or the remainder of the county.

Instead, the charter was defeated by nearly a two to one majority in Jamestown and Dunkirk.

Returns from the townships were late in coming in, but the same trend was evident in towns as in the two cities. In the towns of Carroll, (Frewsburg) and Ellington, the charter was voted down by a five to one margin, while in Westfield it was rejected by a margin of four to one.

In Jamestown, the charter was rejected in five of the city's six wards, with the First Ward on the north side being the only one being in favor.

The vote by wards was: Ward 1, 373 yes, 316 no; Ward 2, 131 yes, 227 no; Ward 3, 201

yes, 354 no; Ward 4, 228 yes, 432 no; Ward 5, 213 yes, 319 no; Ward 6, 324 yes, 438 no. Total for the city was 1,470 yes, and 2,086 no. The vote in the City of Dunkirk was 457 in favor and 1,561 against.

As they left the polls in Jamestown and Falconer, many voters on being questioned said they voted against the charter mainly because of the provision for an appointed county executive. All those questioned said they thought the county's chief executive should be elected by all the people in the county.

Many voters at Washington Junior High School, on the other hand, said they favored a professionally trained appointed executive.

With the charter now dead, it remains to be seen what action, if any, will be taken to reappoint the Chautauqua County Board of Supervisors. The Board of Supervisors, as presently constituted, is operating in violation of the one man, one vote edict of the Supreme Court.

Wallace Schedules 9-Day Trip Through 14 States

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George Wallace, still looking for a running mate, steps up the pace of his presidential campaign Tuesday with the start of a nine-day barnstorming trip through 14 states.

An atmosphere of mystery still surrounded the withdrawal — or dismissal — of former Kentucky Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler as a potential vice presidential candidate on the Wallace third-party ticket.

Until Monday, it seemed all but certain that the former Alabama governor had decided on Chandler for the No. 2 place on the ballot, and a news conference was scheduled for Tuesday in Washington to make the formal announcement.

The news conference was canceled abruptly late Monday, and Chandler, at his home in Versailles, Ky., hinted at some disagreement over civil rights. He told newsmen, "I wouldn't change my record if I could."

The onetime baseball commissioner declined to elaborate, but his wife, Mildred, spoke of "certain things in his progressive past that he's proud of."

In his second term as governor, Chandler mobilized National Guard troops to protect Negro children trying to attend previously all-white schools. He also opened state parks to Negroes and appointed the first Negro to the State Board of Education.

A source close to Wallace said Tuesday that the third-party candidate himself decided against Chandler as a running mate and that the decision was not based on any dispute over racial policies.

"As far as I know," he said, "civil rights wasn't even discussed."

The source said three members of Wallace's staff flew to Chandler's home Monday to notify him of the decision.

Wallace, who spent most of last week vacationing at Miami Beach, Fla., and picked up a cold — resumes his campaigning with a speech Wednesday morning at the 50th annual convention of the American Legion in New Orleans.

Bova Appointed Committee Head

The Warren County Chamber of Commerce announced today that President Jack Lutz has appointed Mike Bova to be Chairman of the Chamber's Parking Committee. Bova, an insurance representative and co-owner of the Penn-Franklin Laundry-Ease will be calling a meeting of his committee members shortly. Also invited to serve on this committee were representatives of the Planning Commission, Citizens Advisory Committee and Pennsylvania Avenue Association. It is hoped that through this united effort, the committee will be able to study the entire traffic and parking problem and submit specific recommendations for implementation. Other Chamber members agreeing to serve on this committee include, James Mazzu, Jake Levinson, Ray Caldwell, Robert McDermott, Carl Barisch, Gerry Archibald and John Eberly.

Heavy Rainfall Causes Flooding Of State Streams and Roads

HARRISBURG (AP) — Up to five inches of rain fell through-out central Pennsylvania Tuesday, causing at least one death and flooding of some streams and roads.

An official five inches fell at Elizabethtown, southeast of Harrisburg. One unofficial report said six inches had fallen at Elizabethtown at 10 p.m. after a day-long rain.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Harrisburg-York Airport said all parts of the state had some rain Tuesday, ranging from a little more than one inch in the west to less than one-half inch in the Philadelphia area.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gidaro, 42,

Kulpmont, a registered nurse, suffered fatal injuries when her car skidded on rain-slicked pavement in Elysburg village of Northumberland County. The area, just north of Shamokin, had at least two inches of rain by 6 p.m.

The Harrisburg area recorded 3.7 inches by 10 p.m. and a weather bureau spokesman said the rainfall likely would continue into the morning hours.

He said central Pennsylvania generally had received from two inches in the north to four or more in the southern counties from the rain that began falling Tuesday morning. Sifremanstown, west of Harrisburg received 4.5 inches, he said.

Streams both large and small began spilling their banks Tuesday night in the Harrisburg area, although no heavy damage was reported. Several streets were flooded and ordered closed. Streams could not carry all of the runoff and many basements were flooded.

Sporadic basement flooding also was reported in Middletown and three fire companies were ordered to help alleviate the problem.

Residents along Swatara Creek in Swatara Township and Yellow Breeches Creek in Upper Allen Township were warned by police and fire officials to watch out for fast-rising waters that could force evacuations.

Negro Students Charged With Mob Action

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Some 300 Negro students were charged with mob action Tuesday following a rampage in the University of Illinois Student Union lounges Monday night.

Police said the young men and women smashed furniture and chandeliers and mutilated 10 portraits of university presidents during a three-hour occupation of the lounges.

Police said the students and some black youths from Champaign gathered in the Illinois Union Monday night to protest against what they charged were inadequate housing arrangements and scholarship policies for Negroes in a program called Project 500—the Special Educational Opportunities Program.

A spokesman for the university said Project 500 is sponsored and wholly financed by the University of Illinois.

An estimated 120 policemen made the arrests.

Those arrested, more than 100 of them girls, were charged with mob action, a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $500 and or 30 days in jail.

Chief Harvey Shirley said police confiscated what he termed makeshift weapons, including screwdrivers, metal rods and pipes.

Black Students Association leader David Addison said the group sought "suitable quarters" and changes in loan-scholarship arrangements.

Chancellor J. W. Peltason told The Associated Press Tuesday that all students involved "will have their registrations encumbered pending disciplinary action to be determined by student and faculty committees."

Of the 30,403 students enrolled at the University of Illinois last semester 7 per cent, or 2,128, were Negroes.

Policemen Fired Following Shooting Spree

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Two white policemen were fired Tuesday after a dozen high caliber bullets were fired from a black-and-white police car into the Oakland headquarters of the Black Panthers.

Police Chief Charles Gains said the two discharged officers had been drinking and that they were on duty at the time of the shooting. He did not elaborate.

He identified them as Richard V. Williams, 28, and Robert W. Farrell, 26. Both joined the force in 1965.

Later, City Manager Jerome Keithley would say only that both policemen had been discharged "on the basis of the police report" of the shooting. No one was in the building when the shots were fired.

The Negro militants' bullet-riddled headquarters is in West Oakland—the same area where one white policeman was slain, a second wounded and Black Panther organizer Huey Newton was arrested Oct. 28 on a murder charge.

Sunday night, after a 35-day trial, a jury rejected the prosecution's murder charge and convicted the 26-year-old Newton of voluntary manslaughter.

At 1:30 a.m. Tuesday, a burst of shots awakened Margarita Ramos at her home near the Black Panther headquarters.

Then a second volley brought her leaping from bed. She said she got to the window in time to see two officers firing from their patrol car.

Her brother-in-law raced to the window and took down the patrol car's number. He notified police.

Youngsville Organizations Maintain Busy Schedule

First United Methodist Church Blue Circle members will hold their first meeting of the new season tonight at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Gwen Mariner, 515 N. Main st.

Saturday at 5:45 p.m., the congregation of the First United Methodist Church will hold a picnic-style reception at Wilder Field to mark the return of their pastor, the Rev. Lyston Knappenberger and Mrs. Knappenberger for a fourth year of service to the church. In the event of rain, the affair will be held in the church basement. Mrs.

Warren Jones is in charge of arrangements.

Saron Lutheran Church Women's three circles will hold a joint meeting this evening at 7:30 at the church to launch their winter program. Paul Rickert of the Warren County Child Welfare Agency will address the group on the agency's foster-parents plan.

A Saron Lutheran Church adult instruction class began last night under the direction of the Rev. James Dorow, and will continue weekly on Tuesday nights. Youngsville's newest organization, the Newcomers' Club, which started last spring, will have a get-acquainted family picnic Saturday at 2 p.m. at Wilder Field. There will be games for children. All newcomers to the area are invited to attend bringing their own picnic lunch. The executive officers, Mrs. George Jones, president; Mrs. James Dorow, Mrs. A. Nagurney, and Mrs. John H. Potter, will provide beverages. The group will hold its first regular meeting in October.

Youngsville P r e-School Mothers Club plans to organize a babysitting clinic for area girls. At the club's first meeting Monday night, Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald was appointed chairman of the project. Thirty-four attended the meeting, and joined in a discussion with Dr. Charles Myers on pre-school dental care. Particular interest centered on the uses of hypnosis in dentistry.

Vacation Bureau Officers Confer In Harrisburg

Three officers of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau spent Monday in Harrisburg conferring with state officials on tourist development projects for Warren and Forest Counties.

Meeting with Clifford L. Jones, secretary of the department of commerce, were KDVB president W. Leroy Schneek, vice president Henry LeMeur and executive director Charles R. Tranter.

Also at this meeting were Robert Shoemaker, director of the state's travel development bureau and two other commerce department specialists. The group discussed future activities for the purpose of attracting travel investment capital to this area.

The vacation bureau leaders also met with Vincent Artz, executive director of the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, relative to the forthcoming feasibility study on a proposed historical outdoor drama.

They also met with Robert Heatherington, public relations director for the state department of highways, who briefed them on current road projects in this area.

Rocky Praises Nixon As Presidential Winner

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon received a roaring reception Tuesday night in the home territory of his former rival, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and heard the New York governor praise him as a presidential winner.

Rockefeller, standing with Nixon at a rally in suburban Westchester County, handed the Republican presidential candidate the mantle of the "new leadership" platform upon which the governor campaigned in vain for the GOP nomination earlier in the year.

"For three months this summer I stumped the nation from coast to coast demanding new leadership," said Rockefeller in his most enthusiastic endorsement so far of Nixon.

"Well, tonight I am here to welcome, on behalf of all of us in Westchester County, the man who is going to provide that new leadership."

Police said some 4,500 people packed the White Plains County Center and 5,000 more were outside.

There was only one bit of political ill-feeling evinced during the evening.

Rockefeller, in calling for the election of the entire Republican ticket in New York State, asked support for Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Boos echoed through the hall.

On Wednesday, Nixon, Rockefeller, Javits and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay are scheduled to appear together to announce plans for carrying the state for the GOP.

Javits and Lindsay both supported Rockefeller for the Republican nomination, but all three now support Nixon.

Tentative Teacher Strike Settlement Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — A tentative settlement was announced Tuesday in a teachers' strike that delayed the opening of New York City public schools for two days for nearly 1.1 million pupils.

Officials were hopeful the fall term could get under way Wednesday.

Mrs. Rose Shapiro, president of the Board of Education, announced: "The Board of Education is pleased to announce an agreement has been reached with the United Federation of Teachers..."

Key issue in the school tieup was the job security demand of UFT President Albert Shanker and his 55,000-member AFL-CIO union.

Terms of the settlement of the racial-tinted dispute were to be submitted to a rank and file union vote within hours.

During the day, only 228 of the city's 900 public schools were open, with about 41,500 pupils in attendance. Summer vacation for most of the students was prolonged for a second day.

Only 4,300 teachers reported to classrooms.

It was the second time in as many years that the UFT had

League Seeks Consumer Reform Legislation

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania League for Consumer Protection, a Philadelphia-based social action group, has implored the General Assembly to reconvene for consideration of pending consumer reform legislation.

In a statement issued Tuesday, the league stated its reason for asking the legislators to return "at this time":

"We feel that rampant fraud, deception, near fraud, and unfair business practices existing now are sufficiently compelling to reconvene the session."

The state House of Representatives and Senate have been in recess since July 15. Originally, Republican leaders, who control majorities in both chambers, indicated they would be back on the job in September. Shortly after the Republican convention in Miami Beach, however, the Republicans said the recess would end November 15, more than a week after the general election.

Citing a long catalogue of alleged offenses against consumers in the state, the organization asked:

"What good reason exists to permit the legislature to remain away from pending legislation while this bliking continues?"

Last month members of the organization picketed the state capitol building, then met inside with representatives of the administration.

In his address, Nixon promised more home rule for suburbanites—"a large part of what I call the forgotten Americans."

Nixon said these Americans don't attract much attention because they don't demonstrate in the streets. He went on to say they "demonstrate by setting an example of citizenship."

"There is a quiet demonstration and it doesn't make the headlines," Nixon said. "But it is this quiet demonstration of faith in the American system that moves America forward."

Nixon cited Rockefeller as an example of an involved suburbanite.

"For 20 years he served as a volunteer on the Westchester Board of Health," Nixon said. "Then it occurred to him that he could do even more to help solve the problems of health and welfare in this state by going on to higher office, and we're all better off because he did."

Nixon said suburbanites "don't need federal projects suddenly imposed upon them."

"For the past four years we've seen a strong push for federal rule," he said, "but in the next four years we're going to see a stronger push for more home rule."

Before leaving New York City for his dinner and speech, Nixon met with a business advisory committee helping him and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, the vice presidential candidate.

In a closed session in a hotel across from Central Park, the businessmen offered advice on inflation, business conditions, and the general health of the economy.

paralyzed the public school system at the outset of the autumn term. Pupils missed 14 class-room days in 1967 during a wage strike by the union.

Shanker served 15 days in jail last year for violating the state's Taylor law, which prohibits strikes by public employees. The union was fined $150,000. Similar action under the law had been initiated in the courts Monday, but was expected to be dropped upon ratification of the back-to-work agreement.

Racial aspects of the current strike were evidenced in Negro Harlem and the Negro-Puerto Rican district of Ocean Hill-Brownsville in Brooklyn. Schools in both areas had remained open in defiance of the UFT strike, although attendance was light.

The firing of 10 white teachers in the locally controlled Ocean Hill-Brownsville school district led to the UFT strike which began Monday, the scheduled opening day of the new term.

The Ocean Hill-Brownsville district is a pilot project in an experiment aimed at eventual decentralization of New York's 900-school complex into 33 locally governed districts. Brownsville is one of the city's worst slum areas.

Last spring, the local board of Ocean Hill-Brownsville ousted 10 white teachers whom it accused of sabotaging decentralization. The Board of Education ordered the 10 returned to their schools, and the UFT struck with a demand that they be taken back without reprisals.

The union contended the Ocean Hill-Brownsville incident was an example of the job security erosion that could result from city-wide decentralization of schools. Expressing fear of mass firings, the teachers insisted on binding outside arbitration in such disputes.

Two Injured In Car Mishap

Two persons sustained slight injuries in a two-car accident at 1:09 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of Prospect street and Pennsylvania avenue E.

Borough police said M. G. Klinestiver, 79, of 113 Pioneer st., was treated at a local doctor's office before returning home.

Brenda F. Bryan, 21, of Star Route, Box 104, Sheffield, operator of the other car, was treated at Warren General Hospital and released.

Police said the Klinestiver car which was traveling south on Prospect street, stopped for the stop sign and then pulled out into the path of the Bryan auto which was proceeding west on Pennsylvania ave. E. Klinestiver was charged with failure to yield to right of way.

Investment Opportunities

What investment opportunities will be available to Warren County residents as we move ahead to the full development of recreation-based expansion of our local economy? How will the profit potential brought about by these opportunities compare with investments in other fields?

These are questions that will most probably be answered on the evening of October 1 when Carolyn Schrock, resource development specialist, and Joe Cardenuto, extension recreation specialist, of Penn State, address a public meeting in the large courtroom at the court house through the sponsorship of the Warren County Agricultural Extension Service.

Both speakers are appearing in Warren by request. Speaking at the Cross Creek Lodge near Titusville, Carolyn Schrock so impressed a large group of recreation developers last June that it seemed imperative she should be invited to deliver a similar talk to a Warren County audience. Speaking as she does from many years experience in the field of recreational development in several states, her approach to the subject is extremely practical and down to earth and ideally suited to a community in the primary stages of development.

Prior to Carolyn Schrock's appearance at Cross Creek, Joe Cardenuto had conducted one session of a three-part symposium on recreational development held in the Warren Area

Anything But Death

The courts recessed around four-thirty and Sam jammed a sheaf of papers into his brief case and moped across the street to Denny's Tavern. In the mahogany gloom, lawyers traded pleasantries and drank by themselves. The only time they bought a beer was a newspaper reporter. The court stringers knew that Sam was a third-rate crime lawyer. He had a face like a firkin of warm butter and his pale eyebrows hung halfway up his bald head in perpetual surprise. Sam was a good small claims man but there was larceny in his intellect. The big lawyers with the alligator shoes and the Sulka ties used to throw him a bone at times.

The only one with marrow in it was the case of Freddie Grimes. I knew Freddie. He lived on impulse. Union Square was his hangout and he wasn't big, but he was fast with his hands. He mooched cigarettes and punched old men who said no to him. Freddie cried at sad movies too and, when he had a pocketful of peanuts, he split them with the pigeons.

He killed his girl, Freddie had lost too many jobs and Tess said she was leaving. They shared a cold water flat off Mott Street near Chatham Square and Freddie Grimes, so far as I know, never had anything or anybody. Except Tess. She was all right if you like your dames with the big roundness where the small ones should be. She had no conversation except to whine or whiny.

Grimes strangled her with his bare hands and she was on the line when the cops arrived. Freddie was sorry. Very sorry. Truly sorry. He had killed the only thing that ever belonged to him. He cried hard. They took him away and I don't think Freddie could have retained a lawyer if he had money.

Some of the biggies talked to a county judge, and Sam was offered the case. It was like asking a mouse to defend a tiger, but Sam took it. Two half-hour talks convinced him that his man was as guilty as a husband smeared with the wrong shade of lipstick. Freddie begged to live. He wept. In his cell he fell to his knees. He prayed. There was a lot of cur in his neurological system when he was trapped. Everybody knew he had to die.

Sam fought the case as though he had a chance. We gave it four paragraphs a day under the supermarket ads. The more Sam made his motions and took his exceptions, the more convinced he became that Freddie Grimes had no heart at all. When court recessed, Sam adjourned to Denny's and worked his shot glass into a sizable circle on the wet bar. "This man," he said off the record, "has no heart at all. I'm convinced he'd do it again."

It was the biggest case Sam ever had, but his client was craven. Gull was proved by an assistant D.A. and the jury was hung for two days. The judge dismissed them without judicial thanks and Sam became a slightly brighter legal light -- about ten watts.

Sam saw more and more of Freddie in the county can. The more the lawyer heard of the prisoner's innermost thoughts, the sicker he became. "The man hasn't got a ticker," he said. "He's got a bunch of arteries and an outboard motor." At the second trial, Freddie was found guilty and sentenced to die. He was dragged from the court screaming and begging for mercy.

It was Sam's time to fake a little. He couldn't do it. At night he worked the trial transcript over and got help filling a brief. The higher court gave him a reversal and Sam got drunk. The big lawyers began to refer to Sam as the bulldog. At the third trial, Freddie Grimes was found guilty and remained guilty.

Everybody said that Sam had kept the bum alive two years beyond his time. The State was paying the lawyer off in unshelled pistachios, but he continued the fight. The legal beagle kept barking and wagging his tail, which is a contradiction in terms. His heart sank every time he went to the death house to talk to Freddie. The prisoner groveled. He went on hunger strikes. He tried to cut his wrists on his bed springs. He prayed to Tess in heaven to intercede for him. "Anything but death!" he used to moan in his sleep. "Anything but that."

Sam exhausted the courts. He went to the governor, an elderly man who sat, hardly listening, with his gubernatorial counsel. Then Sam packed his brief case and took his melting face home. A week later, he was in Denny's. "Drinks for everybody," he said. The bartender asked no questions. That afternoon, the warden had approached Freddie and told him that the governor had commuted his sentence to life. Freddie held the bars, then sagged to the floor, dead. "I feel better," Sam murmured. "R proves he really had a heart."

SYLVIA PORTER

Soaring School Costs

Before 1968 ends you, the local taxpayer, will have turned down more than $1 billion of the bond issues proposed to build schools in your area. In just the first three months of 1968, you voted down more than 40 per cent of all the school bond issues which were requested.

In 1967, you, the local taxpayer, defeated more than one-third of the 1,625 school bond issues proposed across the nation, for a total of $945 million. In some states, you voted down more than one-half of all the bond issues proposed for the 1966-67 school year.

You're in a revolt -- that's obvious. You're rebelling against skyrocketing school construction costs.

This year, total school construction costs are expected to rise 3-4 per cent and as much as 6-7 per cent in some states. Just in the past decade, reports School Management magazine, which has just published a nationwide survey of these costs, the costs have risen 26.5 per cent. A school built 10 years ago for $1,000,000 today would cost $1,265,000; the school which could have been built last year for $1,000,000 will cost at least $32,000 more by the end of 1968.

You're showing your resentment against steep interest rates.

In December 1967, the average interest rate on school bond issues reached 4.55 per cent, vs. 3.11 per cent in 1962-63; rates in the 5-6 and even 6-7 per cent range this year have not been uncommon.

You're reflecting what School Management's editors suggest is "the general onerousness of the times" -- fueled, of course, by the never-ending upsurge in state and local taxes.

And with reason: last year alone we paid a total of $84.2 billion in state and local taxes, an average of about $1,300 per family; we paid a record total of $27.7 billion in property taxes, an average of about $550 a year per family. Property taxes now are rising at the rate of about 10 per cent annually.

Yet, even that is only part of the story. We now have loaded ourselves with $26 billion in bonded debt for our public elementary and high schools, a sum which forces us, the taxpayers, to pay a staggering $966 million a year simply in debt interest. This amount is nearly triple the $342 million in debt interest we paid one decade ago. And this too is increasing by about 7 per cent a year.

It would be soothing if I, or any objective observer, could honestly say that our revolt is forcing down school building costs. But it is not.

All the odds are that school building costs will continue spiraling upwards and that postponement of needed additional classrooms, science labs, school libraries, etc., will compel us to pay even greater sums in the years directly ahead for these facilities. This will be true even assuming a substantial decline in interest rates from today's levels.

Is there anything you, the community minded citizen, can do to pare the costs of building your proposed new school? Yes, here are three things you can do:

Explore the new "systems approach" to school building in order to shave rising local labor costs. This involves the use of pre-built parts of a school such as the heating-ventilating-air conditioning systems now being specially constructed for schools.

Re-examine all proposed special school facilities, ranging from gymnasiums to educational TV and language labs. See if any frills can be eliminated or shared without impairing the quality of education to be offered.

Try to improve your district's bond rating in order to get the best deal available in the marketplace at the time of your bond issue; and shop for the most favorable underwriting arrangement for your district. The bond rating by Moody's vitally influences the interest rate on your bond issue and can spell as much as 10 per cent difference in the overall costs of building a school. The better a case you can make that your district is financially well-managed, the higher will be the Moody's rating and thus the lower will be the interest rate on your school bond issue.

Probe TV Convention Coverage

WASHINGTON — The House Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over radio-TV legislation, has opened a quiet investigation into the TV coverage of the Democratic convention. Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., ordered his investigators this week to determine whether the TV network deliberately focused on incidents that would embarrass the Democrats.

His action was taken after this column reported that the networks sought revenge against the Democrats for locating their convention in Chicago and forcing a $3 million shift on TV equipment from Miami Beach to Chicago.

One network, sore at Mayor Richard Daley for obstructing TV coverage, reportedly ordered its news chiefs to "get Daley."

Certainly the networks played up the controversies, featured the dissidents and focused heavily on police brutality. Equal attention definitely was not given to the Democratic regulars or to the provocations that made the police lose their tempers.

Perhaps the networks simply were looking for provocative TV fare in order to boost their ratings, attract sponsors and increase profits. In other deliberative bodies, TV reporters would never be permitted on the floor during debate to question a delegate about his motives. Indeed, TV cameras aren't even allowed inside the British House of Commons, Japanese Diet or, say, the U.S. House of Representatives.

Staggers would also like to know whether the TV cameras helped to promote the disturbances by providing a national spotlight for the troublemakers. There have been complaints, too, that the networks influenced events by broadcasting unchecked rumors and over-emphasizing certain stories.

It will be worth watching how far Staggers gets with his TV inquiry. For he is butting up against one of the most powerful lobbies on Capitol Hill.

Congressmen don't like to offend TV stations, which give them a lot of free exposure. Many Congressmen also have a pocketbook interest in broadcasting through personal or family holdings in radio-TV stations. The law firms of other Congressmen represent radio-TV clients.

It may not be altogether surprising, therefore, that the House by a 317-40-43 vote stopped the Federal Communications Commission from limiting the number of commercials on TV. However, the networks lost many friends on Capitol Hill, at least among the Democrats, by their TV presentation of the Chicago convention.

The agitators, who fired up the youthful demonstrators in Chicago, are back in their hangouts preparing for a new confrontation on college campuses next month.

They have set the period of October 23-30, according to confidential FBI information, for student demonstrations at universities throughout the country.

RUSSELL BAKER

The Furniture That Joined the Family

WASHINGTON — S. I. Hayakawa, the distinguished scholar of language, said the other day that alienation among the young may result from television. Modern children, he notes, spend an inordinate amount of time in company with the TV set; and the danger of the TV set, as he sees it, is that it offers no opportunity for "interaction."

By the time a youth reaches his full growth, Dr. Hayakawa reasons, he has spent thousands and thousands of hours absorbed with a piece of electronic furniture and, therefore, lacks the wherewithal to cope with human beings.

What is startling in this is Dr. Hayakawa's bland assertion that there is no "interaction" between human and TV set. Dr. Hayakawa must have a very strange relationship with his own TV set if that is what he thinks.

In at least one household that has been obviously never heard of -- and probably in millions of others -- "interaction" with the TV set is almost constant. This particular TV set is pretty much like

MASON DENISON

GOP Pros 'Sense' It

HARRISBURG, Pennsylvania — Republican leaders are exuding an air of optimism and confidence in this campaign year 1968 to a degree unparalleled since the early 1950's.

Most seem convinced this is simply destined to be a "Republican year" at the polls this fall -- nationally, statewide and locally.

A number of the older political pros professes to "sense" such a trend; or as one warlord of yesteryear expressed it: "I can feel it in these aged political bones of mine."

The more practical younger bloods within the Keystone State GOP who have yet to reach the age where bone aches and feelings dominate their outlook, seem to enjoy a similar feeling of the confidence but the bone base is missing; rather their projections are based on trends, evaluations and projections from what might be termed a more practical point of view. For Pennsylvania Republicans generally though, feelings and convictions are running higher this year than at any time of more recent note.

In the mid-1950's when Democrats snatched the governorship from their grasp, Republican hopes and outlook were perhaps at their lowest ebb. Unaccustomed to being the "outs" they flourished in their new role as Democrats wheelhorse onto Capitol Hill.

To understate it, their outlook was dim and grim; in fact for many a GOPster there wasn't even an outlook.

By campaign year 1962 when a governorship was at stake the view had changed little. By this time there were more registered Democrats in Pennsylvania than Republicans -- an unheard of situation up to that time.

For the elephant riders the view was bleak and dark. There was indeed hope within a few breasts, but optimism -- virtually none.

That year 1962 however Republican William Warren Scranton won the governorship -- mostly on the basis of his own personal campaigning.

The win caught Republicans flatfooted but by the end of his four-year tenure there was kindled at least a spark of optimism in the future of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania.

By the time Republican Raymond Philip Shafer campaigned for the gubernatorial Oldsmobile in 1966, there were still more Democrats than Republicans in the Keystone State but by this time Republican optimism began to flicker just a bit more vigorously than four years earlier.

There was no aura of great confidence, no swelling sense of assurance.

Mr. Shafer won the governorship however, and it might be added a bit handily, at which point the first real glimmer of exuding optimism began to appear on the GOP horizon.

By now that optimism has stretched to confidence -- thanks mostly to the chain of events that seemingly mark the year 1968 as a "Republican year" in the eyes of GOP hopefuls.

While it is true the Democratic Johnson Administration in Washington, with its Vietnam conflict tie-in, has not been particularly endearing to many Americans, this is not one of the prime reasons why Republicans are looking forward to 1968 with a sense of satisfaction.

Rather, they are comparing the two nominating conventions -- the comparatively quiet and well-oiled GOP conclave in Miami Beach and the uproarious, riot-smitten Democratic confrontation in Chicago, along with the emergence of the presidential nominees.

While there was opposition to Republican Richard M. Nixon, it ceased once he was nominated. In the case of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey there is still wrangling and visible splits within the party.

Additionally, Republicans regard Mr. Humphrey as a comparatively weak candidate, feeling confident Mr. Nixon will outshine him in almost every endeavor.

Confidence this year on the GOP front in Pennsylvania perhaps understandably is running at a peak -- both in viewing the Pennsylvania scene and the national picture.

cessant process of interaction. For one thing, Henry is a grudge carrier. He knows precisely who is responsible for housing him underground -- the head of the family -- and when there is something the head of the family wants to see, Henry whirls his great single eye around and around and around until it would give a headache to anybody who dared look at him.

At particularly interesting moments, he collapses with all the symptoms of nervous breakdown -- blackout, loss of voice, hysterical humming -- and has to be sent away to have his nervous symptom rewired.

At these times the house seems very empty indeed. Henry may be slightly vicious, a bore and a gasbag, but everyone is invariably happy to see him return home. For better or, more likely, for worse, he is part of the family, and when he is away his absence leaves the family's "interactions" strangely incomplete.

Indeed, it is hard to imagine that families ever survived before there were a Goldie and a Henry to punch in the button and smear jelly on and to talk to, all alone, in the dark hours before Sunday dawn when everyone else has gone to bed and there is nothing left to commune with but a dead scientist and a few dozen commensals.

ELEGANT NEW DESSERT

Persian Apple Pie blending the natural flavor of canned lemon pudding with peaches in a frothy vanilla wafer crust pie is only one of the "peachy" desserts possible with canned puddings.

Persian Apple Pie

The peach was named for where it's been, not where it came from. For its Latin name Prunus persica or ancient familial name "Persian apple" denotes the fuzzy golden fruit's trip from China through Persia to Europe.

But by whatever you choose to call it, the distinctive flavor remains the same. Creamy yellow when ripe, the peach's sweet juices enhance many a dessert menu from out-of-hand eating to this unusual Persian Apple Pie using canned lemon pudding and peaches.

The ready-to-serve pudding, an equitable background for displaying the ripe peach flavor, blended with gelatine, mashed peaches and egg whites forms a frothy filling for a delicate crust of vanilla wafers.

You'll find canned puddings great bases for many "peachy" desserts year round.

PERSIAN APPLE PIE

Fresh Pears Give Inspiration for Harvest Salad

Enjoy the benefits of the early fall season with fresh Bartlett pears. This sunny fruit gives inspiration for many new ideas, including an appetizing Harvest Pear Salad. Stuffed with a tasty combination of dates, pineapple and cranberry sauce, fresh Bartlett pear halves shine in all their elegant glory. A tangy fruit dressing accompanies the salad and gives an added ingredient to complement the mellow juicy pears.

Served alone, tasty fresh mountain Bartlett pears from the Pacific Coast make a nice accompaniment to a luncheon sandwich or entree. Broiled or baked, they become perfect meat accompaniments. For instance, try this with baked ham. Fill the centers of fresh pear halves with raisins and place them in the oven with the ham during the last few minutes of baking. This short time in the oven will plump the raisins and gently heat the pear halves, for a juicy sweet contrast with the smoky ham flavor.

Since you needn't peel fresh Bartlett pears, eating them fresh from the market is a real treat. If the pears are green when you purchase them, a few days out of the refrigerator will bring a nice sunny yellow color to their surfaces.

HARVEST PEAR SALAD
4 fresh Bartlett pears
Lemon juice
1/4 cup chopped dates
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
1/3 cup whole cranberry sauce
1/2 cup drained, crushed pineapple

Tangy Fruit Dressing (below)
Watercress or crisp greens
Halve and core pears. Spread cut surfaces with lemon juice to avoid browning. Combine dates, walnuts, cranberry sauce, pineapple and 2 tablespoons dressing. Fill centers of pear halves with fruit mixture. Arrange pear halves on salad platter. Garnish with watercress or greens. Serve with remaining dressing. Makes 4 servings of 2 pear halves each.

TANGY FRUIT DRESSING
1/3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 egg yolk

HARVEST SALAD

Enjoy the pleasure of eating fresh western Bartlett pears in this appetizing Harvest Pear Salad. Serve with a tangy homemade dressing.

QUICK 'N EASY CURRY

Sprightly curry of shrimp and ham is quick and easy as well as nourishing when you combine it with ever-ready canned chicken gravy.

Curry Sourced With Chicken Gravy

Casual meals often compromise a balanced diet in favor of the quick and easy. So, if you're feeling a bit concerned about short-changing your family, you might take note of this skillet dish which combines the best of two worlds: it's a good, quick, work-saving meal crammed full of nutrition.

Ham, shrimp, and shell macaroni are the nourishing mainstays for this interesting curry. Then the real time-saver enters the picture -- a can of tasty chicken gravy. How simply perfect and perfectly simple to have a heavenly sauce ready to use at the mere flick of a can opener. The addition of curry provides an exotic flavor.

Round out your menu with garden-fresh tomatoes stuffed with cole slaw and a pitcher of pink lemonade.

CURRY OF SHRIMP AND HAM
1/2 cup cooked ham cut into strips
1/4 cup sliced green onion
1 teaspoon curry powder
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 can (10 3/4 ounces) chicken gravy

2 cups cooked shell macaroni

1 1/2 cups cooked shrimp, cut up

1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds

Parsley

In skillet, brown ham and cook onion with curry in butter until tender. Add remaining ingredients except parsley. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

NEW KITCHEN FACILITIES
The spacious, modern kitchen at Pace's Pizzeria Restaurant, which re-opens today following a complete remodeling, is designed to provide fast service while still maintaining high quality food standards. NEWLY REDECORATED INTERIOR
Pace's Pizzeria held a Grand Re-Opening last night, attended by hundreds, to show off the remodeled facilities which can accommodate 100 in the restaurant area and 12 in the cocktail lounge. We **
CONGRATULATE You...
PACE'S PIZZERIA RESTAURANT
ON YOUR
GRAND OPENING
— PLUMBING —
JACK'S PLUMBING & HEATING
120 OAK ST. WARREN, PA.

The completely remodeled Pace's Pizzeria held its Grand Reopening Tuesday night with hundreds of Warrenites turning out to view the new interior and ultra-modern kitchen. While the facilities are new... all that was left following the fire was four walls... the same standard of excellence in food and service continue to prevail. In fact, if anything, service is said to be much better because of the modern kitchen equipment.

A microwave oven cooks most foods in seconds and is capable of cooking a 21-pound frozen turkey in only 30 minutes. Charcoal broiled steaks have long been a Pace specialty ever since Joseph Pace, Fred's father, opened the restaurant 19 years ago. The remodeled Pace's is no exception. The restaurant also has two large, specially made ovens which can accommodate fifteen 14-inch pizzas.

Pace said, are Starbrick, North Warren, Glade Bridge and Pleasant Township. The restaurant opens for business today. Lunches will be served from 11 to 2 p.m. and dinners 4 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday. On Fridays and Saturdays the same luncheon hours prevail, but the restaurant will remain open until midnight.

Another feature is the drive-in window. Drive-in customers can make a complete circle around the structure after making their purchases.

The cozy restaurant area has modern wood paneling, highlighted by red carpeting and imported Italian chandeliers, wall figurines and wall lamps, Pace said.

A row of Colonial-type booths have yet to be installed along the east wall of the restaurant. There's a simulated wood-burning fireplace which adds to overall comfort.

Taped dinner music provides 72 hours of entertainment without repeating a number. The restaurant can seat 100 customers and the cocktail area about 12, Pace said.

Pace's delivery service from the restaurant will be handled by a radio-controlled truck which has a built-in heating oven, keeping the food at eating temperature regardless of how far the delivery.

OBSERVATIONS

By DAVE PIRILLO

Warren's first victory came as little surprise if any to Dragon followers and to say the least not to the Orange and Black of Corry either. Warren's pre-season billing as a hard-nosed contingent with a "get out of our way or we'll roll over you" type of offense was all there for Corry's elusive tactics to deal with.

Coach Toby Shea maneuvered his attack with six or seven basic plays. This left the scouting parties with not much of an idea what the Dragons' potential can and can't do.

Shea, even when he was trailing, had the game pretty much under control. The Dragons scored when needed and that was it. He used the power running of Steve Tundel and Bill Songer with effective results, which in turn gave quarterback Ed O'Neill ample opportunity to hit on key pass situations.

On defense the Dragons were terrific. Tundel performed without any respect to the Corry defenders. He hit the line repeatedly and looked like a fifth man in the Corry backfield. His efforts were well worth it, as he blocked a Corry punt in the latter stages of the game that proved to be the turning point of the game.

Dana Sorensen, Bill Songer, John Marchione and Tom Beckett helped to seal up any air holes in Corry's interior running game.

We don't want to sound like a publicity release for Warren football. They had their faults and probably will continue to have. One that they more than likely won't overcome is their slowness aloof, especially on their outside game and in their defensive backfield.

Anybody breaking into the Dragon secondary is a threat to go the distance, anybody that is who has reasonable speed and a couple of good moves.

Another glowing fault was the punt coverage in the opening minutes of the game. Denny Harrison hauled in a Warren punt and galloped 83-yards with Dragon defenders scoring near-tackles. A couple or even one attempt to nail either of the Lawrence boys from Franklin this way or even speedster Roger Turner will more likely than not prove drastic. It's been proven that the Franklin sprinters are a little leary of good, hard tackling and it psychologically affects their open field running.

Coach Shea and his returnees know from experience what any Franklin back can do on an open field when given the chance. Just this past week in Franklin's 26-7 victory over Erie Academy, Rolland "Bay" Lawrence snagged a Lion punt and rocketed 98-yards to touchdown territory.

Franklin will use the same type of game format as Corry had planned, but with a little more finesse. Their overall speed and the passing of "Bay" Lawrence will be a sight to behold.

If there's not a clean bill of health on O'Neill's and Tundel's injuries then we are predicting a Franklin triumph. It's going to be hard enough beating a team that's only lost twice in their last twenty outings.

FRANKLIN 26 WARREN 13

Sheffield looked like the "Wolverines of old," Saturday. The spirit was there and so was the willingness to play. It's been a few years since we've seen this in the "lumber-jack town." The Orange and Black have adapted to coaches Joe Giordano and Gene Chieffo's brand of football which bears a striking similarity to ex-coach Lou DeRubies' pattern.

In getting the win the Wolverines gave it all they had in the first half by scoring all their nineteen points. Playing both ways like most of the Wolverines do, in 80-degree plus conditions took a lot out of their drive in the second half.

On the line in both departments the Wolverines are rough. They hit hard, be it on tackling or blocking. It makes a difference to the opposing line's way of thinking. And when a line has to think, then they're in trouble.

Tim Hechel is one of the finer quarterbacks around and his coolness in handling the ball reminds one of Stan Korbar of Sheffield's 1965 undefeated team.

Sheffield also has the material in the backfield to coincide with Hechel's passing. Ted Morrison and Conrad Grubbs have the ability to move the pigskin on the inside and outside with a degree of assuredness, while Dave Rounds at fullback is relied on for the short running game and a battering ram for the opposing line.

Rob Hart, an end on offense and a defensive halfback gave a good indication why he was selected as the MVP last year in the Allegheny Mountain League. His hands are the quickest and surest we've seen in a long time. It seems that anything he gets a paw on doesn't get by.

In looking ahead to this Saturday's game, coach Bob Christensen's Port Allegany Gators come to Sheffield on the heels of a 9-0 record for the 1967 season and a 50-0 thumping of the Coudersport Falcons this past weekend.

This is Christensen's fourth year at the Gator helm and he brings eight returning lettermen, all of whom are on offense. Mike Herber is his pride and joy at quarterback. The two-year veteran signal caller has Butch Falkenstein, a senior letterman at the left halfback slot, while Kurt Johnson another two-year letter winner at right half.

Although Coudersport is not figured to be one of the threats in the AML this year, still a fifty point spread is impressive enough for an opener. Thirty-seven of those points against the Falcons came in the first half, while the second and third string finished up the remaining two periods.

The Wolverines are going to have their work cut out for them. Coach Christensen claims his team is weak on defense, and can be scored upon. However, it wasn't evident on Saturday. Sheffield is working on this with preparatory workouts and each passing day they build themselves up for quite a wrestling match with the Gators. We may be going out on a limb, but we think that the Wolverines if fired-up can topple the AML kings.

SHEFFIELD 20 PORT ALLEGANY 10

Youngsville was hampered Friday night by their line on defense and offense. The blocking and tackling wasn't there and thusly nothing worked-out for Coach By Welker. It all leads to a poor showing in which the 12 yards rushing and the seven yards through the air point out.

Its unfair to judge a team by one showing. The Rams this year were provided with the overall talent they need to be a winner and they were out to show their fans of what's to come. Youngsville just couldn't seem to jell. Mistakes were evident throughout the game. Each one seemed to have as much bearing on the game as the next.

Undoubtedly, the Eagles and Coach Welker have corrected this problem in the classroom and on the field during this week's practice sessions. A few shake-ups on the line probably will solve this.

The Eagle rushers weren't getting into the Ram backfield enough to be effective. This put a strain on the secondary, who couldn't curtail the tosses of Bernie Kanska along with the running of Rick Polinski and Don Ciszewski who got through the Eagle line more than a few times.

The Upper Allegheny Valley League opens this week for Youngsville at Cambridge Springs and it should be an evenly matched game.

Both teams lost their opener. The Springs boys dropped a 14-7 tilt to General McLane of the Edinboro area in the final minutes of play on Friday evening.

According to a colleague at the Meadville Tribune, Cambridge Springs, with a few breaks, could be the "dark horse" of the U.A.V.L. They have been the target of abuse over the past two years in losing fifteen of sixteen games and have gained valuable experience. Quarterback Tom McKissock has ran the club during the draught and is ready for a winner.

It should be an evenly matched game, but being away from home again, we pick the Cambridge Spring Blue Devils to nudge the Eagles.

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS 21 YOUNGVILLE 13

Rose Leads NL Hitters

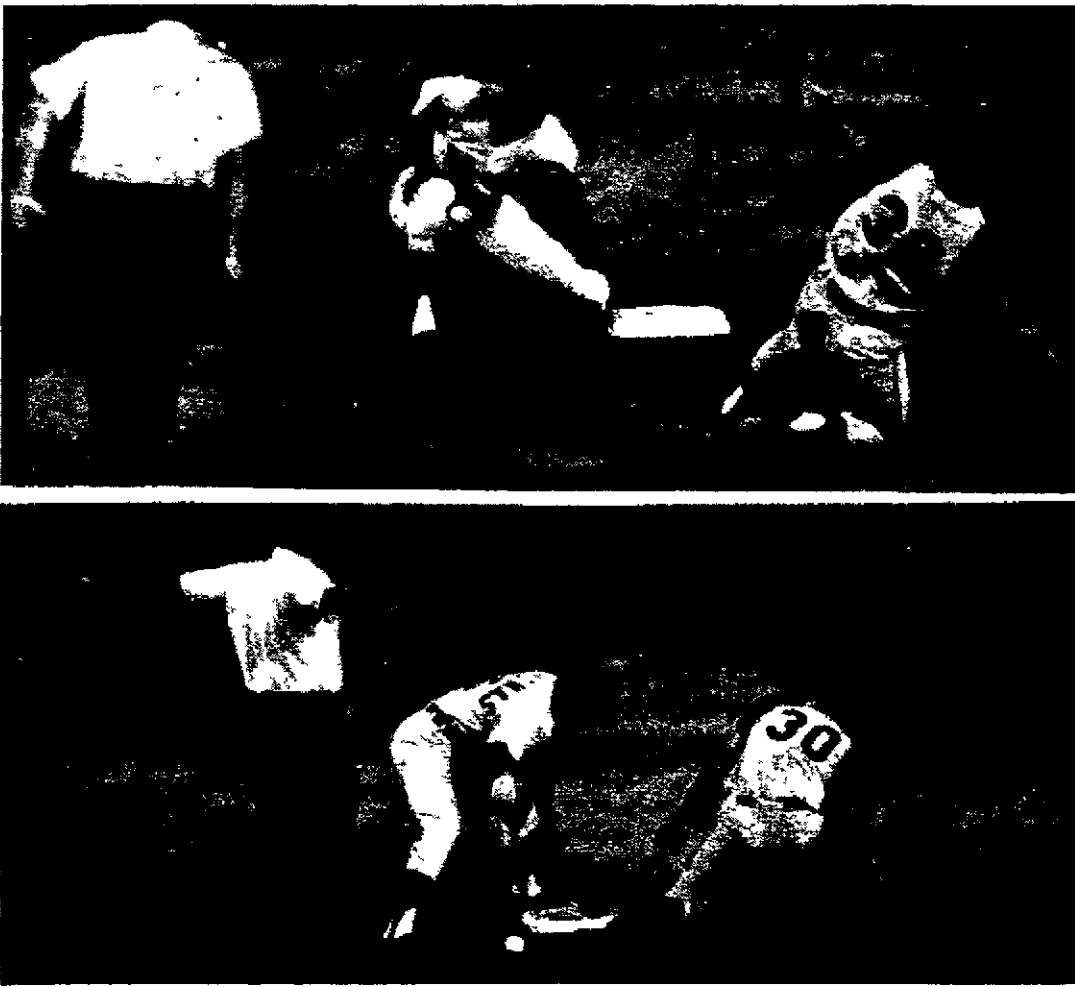

Pete Rose of Cincinnati still leads National League hitters with a .344 average, despite being sidelined for three weeks with a broken right thumb. He also paces the circuit in hits with 165 and probably will reach the 200-hit mark for the third time in four years.

Frank Howard of Washington, enjoying his best season in the big leagues, tops the American League with 39 homers, seven more than the NL pace-setter, Willie McCovey of San Francisco. Howard is also the runner-up to Boston's Ken Harrelson in runs batted in. The slugging Senator has 98 RBI to Harrelson's 103.

A journeyman infielder out-felder, Danny Cater of Oakland has moved into a triple tie for the A.L. batting lead with Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, the defending champion, and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, who is out for the season with a dislocated shoulder. Each is hitting .289.

Cater, tied for third a week ago, climbed six points by collecting eight hits in 19 innings.

HE'S OUT! NO, HE'S SAFE

Pirate Maury Wills is an easy out in the top picture, as he slides into second base while Red Shortstop Leo Cardenas awaits the ball. Below, Cardenas has the ball, but it rolls from his glove, and Wills is safe at second. No error was charged on the play. The umpire is Harry Wendestadt.

Dr. Fager Favored to Win United Nations Handicap

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Dr. Fager gives away from 12 to 23 pounds today in his debut on a grass course as the Tartan Stable horse opposes a field of 10 in the $100,000 invitational United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City Race Course.

Despite the fact he has never ran on the turf, the 4-year-old Dr. Fager is a 1-2 favorite to gallop in the mile and three sixteenth run for the $85,000 first money. He'll carry 134 pounds, including jockey Braulio Baeza out of the No. 6 post.

Stated to take a shot at the odds on favorite are Meadowhill's More Scents, (122), Rokeby Stable's Fort Marcy (118), Tobin Bronze (118), the Australian champion, Ada L. Rice's Advocate (112), Mac-Conn Stable's Irish Rebellion (117), Mrs. Henry Obre's New Song 2nd (113), Robert Lehman's Flit-to (115), last year's winner; San Marco Stable's Shooting Chant (111), Saul Nadler's Ruth's Rulah (111), and Mrs. J. R. H. Thouron's Ginger Fizz (113).

In sending out invitations for the UN, Kenneth Lennox, Atlantic City racing secretary, listed Dr. Fager and Mrs. Edith Bancroft's Damascus as the two top horses in the world. Damascus' handlers, however, declined the invitation to meet the horse they have to beat for handicap horse of the year honors.

Trainer Johnny Nerud says he doesn't expect Dr. Fager to have much trouble running on grass. "Borrowing race track adage," says Nerud, "a good horse can run on any footing and Dr. Fager has won on fast, good and sloppy tracks."

"I've seen a lot of great horses in my time, and I've never seen a better horse than Dr. Fager."

Despite Nerud's optimism over Dr. Fager's grass possibilities, it should be noted that such greats as Kelso, Buckpasser and Damascus failed on the turf. The 4-year-old son of Rough'n Tumble, Aspidistra, may, however, have something going for him that the others didn't. His Dam, Aspidistra, also produced Chinatown, a fair performer on dirt, but an excellent grass runner.

This could be a big victory for Dr. Fager, if he upholds his favoritism. It could mean ties as horse of the year, champion handicap horse and champion grass horse.

Forty Marcy, ridden by Jorge Velasquez, and an 8-1 early line selection, could upset if he runs back to his 1967 championship grass form. The Rokeby Stable horse campaigned in the west and far west this year and was a beaten favorite here recently. Another possibility is Tobin Bronze, the Australian invader who gets in at 118 and is a 12-1 outsider. A winner over the track this meeting, Tobin Bronze will be handled by Walter Blum. More Scents has won 9 to 16 this year and is second choice at 6-1.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mayor James H. Tate said Tuesday he will ask City Council to approve an additional $2.7 million loan to complete construction of a $44 million all-sports stadium in South Philadelphia.

The mayor, at first, said this would be a loan requiring voter approval. Later, aides corrected this to say that it will be a councilmanic loan. This type of loan does not require voter approval.

The voters already have approved two loans of $25 million and $13 million to finance the stadium in South Philadelphia. Now, based on bids, the stadium probably will cost about $40.5 million. Target date for use of the stadium is the spring of 1970.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Horse Racing Commission Tuesday set Sept. 19 as the date for six license applicants to be heard.

They are Pennsylvania National Turf Club, Inc., Shamrock Raceway Association, Inc., Montco Raceway, Inc., Lakeyards Racing Association, Inc., Yorktowne Racing Association, Inc. and Keystone Downs, Inc.

Commission Chairman Roy Willington, Jr., said dates for five other applications haven't been determined. The commission is authorized to award four licenses for pari-mutual thoroughbred racing throughout the state.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers said Tuesday the club had asked waivers on three players, including Jim Jim (Cannonball) Butler, who was starting his fourth year, and John Foruria.

Butler, a speedster halfback who has run the 100 yard dash in 9.7, has shown sporadic signs of excellence in his three seasons with the Steelers. But injuries slowed him part of last year.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers said Tuesday the club had asked waivers on three players, including Jim Jim (Cannonball) Butler, who was starting his fourth year, and John Foruria.

Butler, a speedster halfback who has run the 100 yard dash in 9.7, has shown sporadic signs of excellence in his three seasons with the Steelers. But injuries slowed him part of last year.

Temple: How Little Schools Get Big Football Players

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The telephone rang in the office of Temple football coach George Makris one day two years ago. It was Navy coach Bill Elias on the line.

"Say George," said Bill, "how would you like a tremendous halfback?"

Makris would like a tremendous halfback as much as Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey would like to live in the White House. He was cautious in his reply, however, thinking: "Why would Elias be giving away tremendous halfbacks?"

"This kid doesn't want to come here (Navy) and I'd rather you get him than someone we play, like Penn State, Pitt or Maryland," explained Elias. "If you're interested I'll alert his father and you give him a call."

Makris still was a little leary. He recalled 1960, when he came to Temple, inherited a 21-game losing streak and discovered the only prospects he could recruit were those no other school wanted. He figured, however, the tip was worth a telephone call to Severna Park, Md.

Makris made the call and recruited Mike Busch for nothing. He invited the boy and his father to visit the Temple campus.

"They walked around, liked the place and the father agreed to send him, Makris said. "He paid for his first semester. Our freshman coach, Gavin White, took one look at Busch and told me we had one of the finest halfbacks in many years. He had good hands, speed, power, everything you look for in an outstanding halfback. He got fullback starting with the second semester."

Busch was one of the main reasons Temple last season won its first MAC football title. As a sophomore he led the team in ground gaining with 622 yards on 181 carries for a 3.4 average. He scored 50 points, including an 84-yard TD and two-point conversion in the final seconds to beat Akron 22-21.

The Cardinals, who have lost six of their last seven games, had their first place margin in the National League trimmed to 10½ games over San Francisco, which beat Atlanta 4-2.

NOT A VERY GOOD YEAR

(c) N. Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—When Eddie Stanky disappeared from the scene as White Sox manager in mid-July, the serene life of Senor Alfonso Ramon Lopez was violently disrupted. The one-time Gay Caballero had been enjoying his retirement in his native city of Tampa. He played golf every day and occasionally went on talent-appraising trips in his role as "Consultant." It was a pleasant existence, totally carefree.

But when Stanky departed, the White Sox were in a jam. So Ed Short, the general manager, turned to his buddy, Lopez, for a rescue job. Not one to turn down a friend in an emergency, the Senor agreed to return for the rest of this season at least and perhaps—this was done reluctantly—the next one as well.

The Chicagoans had invariably been contenders when Lopez was their skipper. He came back to find them in next-to-last place. Eleven days later Al had to undergo an emergency operation for appendicitis and was sidelined for five weeks. It has been a rugged year for him and a floundering ball club hardly has hastened his convalescence. One thing has shocked him more than anything else.

"What's happened to the hitters?" he wailed today. "That's a new development that I can neither understand or explain. We won a pennant with a team that was called the Hitless Wonders, but we were better hitters than they have today."

"I don't want to sound as though I've just returned from a trip to the moon but I've also noticed how young the pitchers are. My first big league manager was Uncle Wilbert Robinson of the Dodgers and Uncle Robbie, like all managers of that day, preferred his pitchers old and experienced. He also liked them big."

"I remember how surprised I was when he kept Van Lingle Mungo, because Van was only a kid, maybe 21 or 22. But he was big and he could throw hard. That's something Uncle Robbie couldn't resist. One day when I was to catch Mungo, Robbie told me to keep looking over to the bench because he'd call every pitch. We're winning by a run in the ninth when the Dodgers start to act like Dodgers and the bases are full. Up to bat steps Paul Waner, as good a hitter as there is in the league."

"I glance to the bench for instructions. All I can see is Uncle Robbie's broad beam. He is taking a drink at the water cooler. I still but he won't turn around. Then he sits down and stares at the flagpole. Somebody nudges him and points to me, telling Robbie I'm waiting for a sign from him. He walks to the front steps and shouts at me."

Lopez has been doing his own thinking ever since. Oh, yes, he escaped from the inning although he no longer can remember how.

It was a baseball connection that made Lopez so independently wealthy that he doesn't need the White Sox job. When he was with the Braves in Boston he became partners with Randy Moore and Casey Stengel in an oil well deal. They struck a gusher and it has been pouring green money into their treasuries ever since.

"Here's how I got to Boston," said the Senor with a smile. "Casey was my manager at Brooklyn in 1935 and I ran into him that winter."

"The pressure is on for a deal," he said. "Everyone wants you or Mungo but Mungo is younger and I may have to let you go. But I'll take care of you, Al. If I trade you, I'll trade you to a contender."

"The next thing I know, he's dealt me off to the Braves who had just set a record for most games lost in a season. Some contender. Not long afterwards Casey is managing me in Boston where they're operating on a shoestring. Don't forget that Stengel is my pal."

"Just before the trading deadline in 1940, he confides in me that the ball club is so broke, it is having trouble in meeting the payroll. He will be forced to trade Eddie Miller, our shortstop, for cash, probably to the Cubs who want him bad."

"Looks like you're getting a break," I say to Miller. "You're headed for the Cubs."

"Not me," he says. "The Old Man hates me too much to trade me. Betcha a $100 suit of clothes I don't get traded." "I don't want to take your money," I said. But he pushed me so hard that I had to make the bet. Who got traded? Me. And I was out a hundred bucks for a suit. I mailed him the check from Pittsburgh."

Lopez talked animatedly about the past. But the shadows returned to his face when he spoke of the present. The White Sox have intruded on what was supposed to be an enjoyable retirement.

RINGO ISN'T PLAYING ANYMORE

Jim Ringo, after playing in the National Football League for 15 years, won't be found in uniform this season. Big Jim, while with the Green Bay Packers, and then the Philadelphia Eagles, was all-league center for seven straight years. He holds the NFL record of 182 consecutive games played. He was a member of two world championship teams at Green Bay.

Arthur Ashe Jr. Plays 162 Tennis Games in Day

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—They finally got a weary and bedraggled Arthur Ashe, Jr., off the center court at West Side Tennis Club at 2:33 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

In the last 24 hours—just 27 minutes under—the skinny Negro star had played a total of 162 games, winning the U.S. Open singles championship, fighting his way into the doubles final in a three-day match and then, his pipe-stem legs like rubber, losing in the last round of the men's doubles.

The men's doubles crown went to America's two young Davis Cup specialists, Stan Smith and Bobby Lutz of Pasadena, Calif., who whipped Ashe and his partner, pro Andres Gimeno of Spain, 11-9, 6-1, 7-5.

Smith and Lutz thus added the U.S. Open to their U.S. Amateur conquest at Brookline, Mass., two weeks before and further buoyed American hopes of recapturing the Davis Cup from Australia in December.

It seems almost certain that the two University of Southern California students—they both are 21—will play the doubles role against the Aussies at Adelaide, starting the day after Christmas.

"We certainly have a lot going for us," commented the U.S. captain, Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md.

The American college boys, in winning the Open, waded through a field that included the best doubles teams in the world, among them Roy Laver and Roy Emerson, Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle, Tony Roche and John Newcombe.

Ashe, the top singles ace of the American team, started his tennis marathon at 3 p.m. Monday, beating Holland's Tom Okker in the men's singles final 14-12, 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3—a total of 65 games.

Then, after a brief rest, he took the court again to try to complete a semifinal doubles match that had been halted Sunday by darkness with the score tied 4-4 in the fourth set.

Sixteen games were played and still there was no decision. Again darkness intervened with the score 12-12 in the fourth with Clark Grabner of New York and Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico, the other U.S. Davis Cup pair, leading Ashe and Gimeno, two sets to one, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Starting at 10:30 a.m. EDT Tuesday, Ashe and Gimeno rallied to pull out the match 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 20-18, 15-13. The match had lasted three days and there were 42 more games added to Ashe's phenomenal string.

Off The Track

EAGER TO WIN

By Dan Pratts

A story floating around State Line Speedway last Saturday night, and all weekend, concerns this year's circuit point champion Bob Schnars and his hot, little '68 Javelin. As you may already know the point race was a close one this season with last Saturday and Sunday nights deciding the winner. As Sunday night's 100-lap grand championship race finished, Schnars placed fourth and Squirt Johns, closest contender, finished second. Thus, Schnars won the circuit by ten points.

Getting back to the story, one which has been confirmed by Schnars himself, it seems that late Saturday afternoon, prior to race time, the Schnars pit crew decided to wash the Javelin inside and out. With the mud all washed off and the auto looking brand new, everyone sat down to take it easy and eat dinner before taking off for the races.

It was reported that as Schnars was outside, close to the garage, he heard the Javelin turning over. A quick check assured him that no one was around the car and he immediately looked over the ignition and solenoid to see if everything checked out. With all parts A-O-K, the Busti, N.Y., driver went in to eat supper.

Once more while at the dinner table he heard the auto buzzing and a whirring sound as though it was trying to start on its own. Then, the unbelievable happened. About 10 minutes later the same noise occurred and the engine started cranking and, believe it or not, the car fired up. Schnars ran to the garage only steps away to find the car sitting there running on its own.

This time Bob hopped in the car and turned the ignition key ON and OFF but the engine kept running. Unwilling to chance the car fouling up in Saturday night's important race, to be run only a few hours later, Schnars installed a new

Jarring Jimmy Taylor Goes to Front Office

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Jimmy Taylor, whose brute strength as a ball carrier made him a living legend of pro football, turned in his uniform Tuesday for a front office job with the New Orleans Saints.

"I'll take a while to get used to not playing," Taylor said at a news conference called to announce his retirement after 10 seasons in the National Football League.

"Taylor's contributions to the first-year Saints will never be forgotten," said team owner John W. Mechem Jr., who signed the Green Bay great to a rich contract in 1967 after he had played out his option with the Packers.

"His magnificent efforts with a young, untested team of veterans and rookies were matched only by the leadership and balance he gave the Saints when it was needed the most."

A smiling Taylor, accompanied by his wife, Dixie, easily fielded questions posed by newsmen at the news conference. He said he'd had retirement under consideration for several weeks. Mrs. Taylor, however, had to fight back the tears several times. Asked if she wasn't relieved that she wouldn't have to worry each Sunday in the fall about injuries to her husband, she replied, "I'd rather not say."

Taylor will be 33 on Sept. 20, six days after the Saints open their regular season against the Cleveland Browns. Although he had only 390 yards rushing last year, he was the leading rusher for the first-year Saints.

It was at Green Bay, under Vince Lombardi, that Taylor wrote his name in the record books. In 1962, he was The Associated Press' Player of the Year and won the Jim Thorpe Trophy.

He scored 19 touchdowns in 1962. No other NFL back has ever scored that many times from scrimmage in a single season. No other man put together five straight 1,000-yard-plus years rushing as Taylor did from 1960-1964. In title games, no man has gained as many yards rushing, or as much rushing-pass catching yardage combined as Taylor.

Mechem said Taylor will function in the area of public relations in the Saints' front office.

Groza Gets the Axe From Cleveland Browns

Lou Groza, the king of conventional kickers whose talented toe made him the all-time scoring leader in the National Football League, was waived Tuesday by the Cleveland Browns in what may signal his farewell to professional football after a 21-year career.

In announcing their decision to ask for waivers on Groza as NFL teams cut down to the mandatory 40-player limit, the Browns said they planned to use the 44-year-old as a kicking coach. He could, however, be restored to the roster at some future time.

Groza, who began his career in the old All-American Conference in 1946, came into the NFL along with the Browns in 1950. He has scored 1,608 points in his career, including a record 1,349 in the NFL on one touchdown, 641 extra points and 234 field goals.

In 1967, Groza made good on all 43 of his conversion attempts and 11 of 23 field goals for 76 points. Also waived was the No. 5 pass receiver in NFL history, Tommy McDonald of the Atlanta Falcons. McDonald, a 34-year-old, 175-pound flanker who also played with Philadelphia, Dallas and Los Angeles, has caught 488 passes for 8,297 yards in his 11-year career.

Groza and McDonald join several other name players trimmed from NFL rosters Monday, including receiver Paul Flatley and quarterback Bob Berry of Minnesota and defensive back Ross Fichtner of New Orleans.

Among other moves Tuesday: Baltimore — Cut defensive tackle Andy Stynchula.

Atlanta — Waived quarterback Ron VanderKelen.

GOLFING WITH Arnold Palmer
Golf's First Million Dollar PGA Winner

COUNTDOWN FOR LOWER SCORES—4,3,2,1
Successful golfers follow a pattern of behavior when they set up to a shot. You too should follow a "countdown"—checking off key indicators that tell you you're ready to fire. For instance:

- 1! Put the clubface squarely behind the ball so that it looks at the target.
- 2! Put your feet in position so that the ball is opposite the desired spot in your stance.
- 3! Check to see that your stance is square—toes equidistant from the target line.
- 4! Check to see that your shoulder line is also square—parallel to the target line.

Finally, blast off just like the rockets do—slowly and smoothly, gradually increasing in velocity.

Stock Prices Decline Moderately

NEW YORK (AP) — After six straight daily advances, the stock market took a loss Tuesday.

Trading was moderately active 11.44 million shares compared with 11.89 million Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a fairly stiff loss of 5.60 at 919.38.

Chemicals were generally lower despite a new series of price increases for several major chemical products.

Allied fell 1 1/2, Eastman Kodak 1 1/2 and Union Carbide 1/2, but Du Pont emerged with a gain of 5/8.

Imperial Corp. of America, up 1/2 at 16 1/2, was the most active in the group.

Gold-mining stocks advanced against the trend amid speculation that there might be a further devaluation of the pound sterling. Homestake rose 3/4 and American-South African investment 3/4.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.7 to 340.1 with industrials off 3.1, rails off 1.0 and utilities off .4.

Of 1,541 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 794 fell and 507 rose.

New Administration Dilemma: The Phillips Curve

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — The new administration, color it Nixon, color it Humphrey, is beginning in despair. Both not only are telling us that nothing much can be done about Vietnam, but they are also suggesting that nothing much can be done about the Phillips curve.

The Phillips curve was named after Professor A. W. Phillips of the London School of Economics. He studied data for Great Britain over the past century and concluded that, in the short-run at least, a lower rate of price inflation means a higher rate of unemployment and vice versa. His curve graphically expresses this conclusion.

Humphrey in his campaign last week established a theme. Under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, he said, prices had gone up, but jobs and real incomes — incomes, that is, adjusted for price increases — had gone up too. The average family's 1968 real income, he said, was sufficiently higher than that in 1960 to buy an automobile or a year of college education.

Unless the Phillips curve can be altered, the nation is faced with a Hobson's choice: a higher rate of inflation than is acceptable to hold down unemployment, or an intolerable level of unemployment to limit inflation.

Under President Eisenhower, Humphrey added, prices had gone up as much as under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson but there had been little real growth. The information probably came from Walter W. Heller, a Humphrey adviser and former chairman of the Kennedy council of economic advisers.

A different reading of the same data is given by Paul A. Samuelson, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology economist, also closely identified with the Kennedy administration. The Eisenhower administration, he said last year, was deeply troubled by the tendency of prices to creep upward even when business was slack.

So it was understandable, Professor Samuelson said, when the Federal Reserve and the Eisenhower administration, he said last year, was deeply troubled by the tendency of prices to creep upward even when business was slack.

So it was understandable, Professor Samuelson said, when the Federal Reserve and the Eisenhower administration moved toward austerity. He termed their persistence in this effort an "investment in sadism" from which the Kennedy-Johnson administration benefited. He commented that "... President Kennedy's predecessor made him look good. I think this was true because of Eisenhower's inactivity and errors of omission. But he also created conditions which were helpful to the long expansion which we have had in the 1960's."

Dr. Arthur F. Burns, an Eisenhower economic aide, agreed with Professor Samuelson that the Kennedy and early Johnson years were ones of active experimentation and accomplishment. But he phrased a question many must have asked themselves:

"Why did the nation's policymakers, who for years had succeeded so well in monitoring a business expansion under difficult conditions, finally unleash the forces of inflation? Why did men who showed the ability to profit from experience succumb to one of the oldest weaknesses of governmental practice?"

Dr. Burns' thoughts on the subject suggested that the "new economists" were growth oriented rather than cycle-oriented, and that the paucity of meaningful statistics, such as those on job vacancies, contributed to their downfall. Historical judgment, however, is less important than another question: Can inflation be subdued without another "investment in sadism?"

One answer is that nobody knows. Professor Samuelson notes that there just isn't enough information to say whether inflation can be cooled without excessive cooling of the economy.

Professor Samuelson thinks it might be. The wage-price guideposts, he suggests, might have worked if they had been given a better chance.

Dr. Burns offers nothing specifically on the point. He calls for fewer changes in the economic stage-setting, less fine-tuning, fewer reversals of tax policy. Dr. Burns is one of Nixon's advisers.

The matter, of course, may already have been decided. Many forecasters believe that the turnabout in government tax and spending policy — from a $25 billion deficit in the year ended June 30 to a $5 billion or smaller one this fiscal year — plus a tighter credit policy this year than last will mean a recession early in 1969.

Professor Samuelson says that conceivably the Phillips curve could be altered — that is, the rate of inflation could be lowered permanently without increasing employment — by more vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws, by getting rid of the minimum wage, by encouraging flexibility and structural changes in the economy, and by stepping up the training of the labor force.

Humphrey To Campaign In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, will bring his campaign to Pittsburgh Friday and Saturday.

The Allegheny County Democratic Headquarters said Tuesday most of Humphrey's time in Pittsburgh would be taken up with television tapings.

A spokesman said he will speak to the Allegheny County Democratic Women at their annual picnic at Pittsburgh's North Park at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Humphrey is expected to arrive at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport at 8 p.m. Friday and remain in Pittsburgh until 3 p.m. Saturday.

U.S. Lists Cultural Sanctions Against Red Czech Invaders

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The United States completed its series of cultural sanctions Tuesday against the Communist countries that invaded Czechoslovakia. The State Department announced cancellation of a U.S. exhibit at a trade fair this month in Bulgaria.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told newsmen that the invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 had caused "a very serious and understandable interference" in U.S. relations with the Soviet Union.

In making the largely symbolic move of cancelling cultural exchanges with the countries that participated in the invasion, the Johnson administration has pointedly maintained such ties with nonparticipants.

At the same time as he made the announcement about Bulgaria, the State Department spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, said that the U.S. government and private corporations are continuing their plans to participate in Czechoslovakia's Brno Trade Fair from Sept. 15 to Sept. 24.

On Thursday, one of the performing arts attractions scheduled to tour the Soviet Union was cancelled. U.S. officials explained that there were no programs on the agenda with Hungary or East Germany — the other two participants in the invasion — so there was nothing to cancel at this time.

Speaking to newsmen after a three-hour meeting with the House foreign affairs committee, Rusk indicated that more profound political contacts between East and West would still have to be maintained.

"This is not one of those situations where everything goes back to total hostility with no contact between each other, because the world still has to live," he said. The Czechoslovak tensions do not remove the other major questions that the world must face such as the limitation of offensive and defensive missiles, Vietnam is still there and the Middle East is still there," Rusk added.

After hearing the Defense Secretary, Clark M. Clifford, testify before the House defense appropriations subcommittee, congressmen reported that the administration showed no signs of wanting to move more U.S. troops to Western Europe in the aftermath of the Czechoslovak crisis.

College Students Sentenced For Desecration of Flag

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — A Centre County judge sentenced two Pennsylvania State University students on charges of desecration of the United States flag, but said the case needs further adjudication.

Judge R. Paul Campbell said the statute on desecration "has been badly drafted."

He sentenced Stephen H. Hough, 20, of Monessen to one to two months in jail Monday and fined Hough and 20-year-old Rochelle Janoff of Beaver Falls $200 each.

The judge said he did not give Miss Janoff a jail sentence because "she was less mature and more likely to become involved."

The charge resulted from an Independence Day, 1967, firemen's parade in State College. The two students were found guilty Nov. 9 in a nonjury trial.

Hough and Miss Janoff were accused of lettering the words, "Make love not war" on the flag.

An American Civil Liberties Union attorney told the court that he would seek a new trial.

Woman Who Lost Son May Lose His Widow, Too

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — Ora Floyd lost her son to an enemy machine-gun bullet in Vietnam. Now she fears she may lose his widow to U.S. immigration laws.

"She married my son," Mrs. Floyd said Tuesday. "He fought and died for his country. He volunteered to go to Vietnam a second time because he thought it was his duty. If I lose her, I'll lose all that I've got left of him."

Mrs. Floyd's daughter-in-law is 20-year-old Misoying (Eiko) Floyd, who came to this country on a student visa from Japan in 1964, graduated from Kennett High School with honors—and met Bogard Floyd.

After Floyd returned from his first tour in Vietnam, he and Eiko, pronounced A-Ko, were married March 25, 1967.

Then last March 16, Bogard, a sergeant with the 101st Air Cavalry Division, was killed in action.

Eiko had not renewed her student visa after her marriage—"I didn't think I had to," she said. But immigration officials say under the law she is an alien with an expired visa, and subject to immigration quotas.

Eiko's father was a citizen of China before that nation was taken over by the Communists. He moved to Japan, but never became a citizen of that country. Although Eiko was born in Kobe, Japan, immigration officials say she is a citizen of Nationalist China on Formosa.

Eiko, now taking a computer automation course at a business school in Memphis, Tenn., said she has been told she can remain in this country until her course is completed next year.

"That's all we could tell her. We don't know what the outcome will be," said Raymond Bunker, head of the Immigration Service office in Memphis, which is investigating her case. "But we will take a sympathetic view. There will be no drastic action."

Youths Go On Rampage After School

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police said about 50 youths went on a rampage just after school let out at Gladstone High School Tuesday, breaking plate glass windows, pelting cars with stones and vandalizing merchandise in stores.

The outburst erupted along Second Ave. in the Hazlewood section for no apparent reason, police said.

Jean Sotirake, assistant manager of the G. C. Murphy Co. store, said the youths "burst through the door and began wrecking things."

"They came in and turned over displays and broke bottle merchandise," she said.

Mrs. Sotirake said the youths were "like a swarm of bees."

She said the group left the store after five minutes, leaving the aisles full of debris. She made no immediate damage estimate.

Andrew Bodner, manager of a dairy store in the area, said the gang stopped in front of his store but only five boys entered.

"They knocked over a few displays and left," Bodner said. Police said no arrests were made and listed the incident as "malicious mischief by a group of about 50 black youths."

BIRDS GET BLAME

JAIPUR, India (AP) — State officials felt the explanation of a government warehouse keeper over some missing imported wheat was "for the birds." The keeper said the missing wheat was eaten by pigeons. Officials doubted pigeons could make off with 220,000 pounds of wheat. They suspended the man and ordered an inquiry.

Johnson Reported 'Pleased' with New Portrait

WASHINGTON (AP) — A portrait of President Johnson for the White House has been completed and approved—and the President is very pleased with it, the White House announced Tuesday.

This picture is different from that other portrait, one which the painter, Peter Hurd, said

Johnson called "the ugliest thing I ever saw."

The White House rejected that one early in 1967.

The new portrait was painted by Madam Elizabeth Shoumatoff of Locust Valley, Long Island, N.Y., and shows Johnson seated with the Capitol dome in the distant background.

"The President is very pleased with the portrait," said the announcement.

The portrait also has received the approval of the White House Historical Association, which commissioned it in line with a goal of having portraits of presidents and first ladies, ideally painted while living in the White House.

The association uses funds from sale of guidebooks and other White House publications.

Madam Shoumatoff began work on the Johnson portrait in late April, had seven sittings and completed it in late July. The canvas is 31 by 26 inches, similar to dimensions of a portrait of Mrs. Johnson, also painted by Madam Shoumatoff.

The President is wearing a charcoal grey suit with a white shirt and a deep maroon and dark blue striped tie. The background is a grey-blue sky with green and beige foliage along with the dome of the Capitol, where Johnson served as a member of Congress for 24 years.

Madam Shoumatoff has painted three portraits of President

Franklin D. Roosevelt, one of which hangs in Johnson's office.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband promised to sell Duke, our pedigree collie, to his brother George for $100 when we moved to an apartment. We moved last week and took Duke to his new home. Two days later Duke died. George insists the dog was sick when we brought him and he refuses to pay the $100. I called George a cheap jerk and a few other names which he richly deserved. My husband is mad at me. He says maybe the dog was sick and that he's going to forget about the $100. I say his brother is a crook and we should keep on his back until he pays. What do you suggest? — EDNA

DEAR EDNA: A muzzle -- for you. If your husband wants to forget about the money, let him. Perhaps the dog was sick when you sold him to George. A brother fight can be worse than a dog fight.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was 13 I saw John Forsythe in a movie. When he kissed the girl I got so excited I nearly fainted. I am now 20 and have gone beyond kissing, to put it bluntly, yet no one has been able to thrill me the way John Forsythe did when he kissed that girl. Am I nuts? — SORRY ABOUT THAT

DEAR SORRY: You aren't nuts, you just have a strong imagination and enjoy your fantasies more than real life fellows. Try transferring some of that excitement to the one you're with, since your chances of getting John are rather slim.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have said repeatedly that over-eating may be compensation for the lack of love. Could it not also be a sign of too much love?

How many women try to please their husbands by setting a table loaded with starches, fats, too much seasoning and too many calories? How many mothers stuff their children -- "Eat, it's good for you." How many "unclaimed jewels" try to impress eligible men by whipping up rich and tantalizing dishes? How many widowed women spend their days cooking and baking for bachelor sons?

It is pathetic that so many women try to win love by shoveling in the food. It would be an act of kindness if they served small portions of nourishing food and helped their loved ones to stay slim and healthy. Tell them, please, that a 2-mile walk will do more for a person than a chocolate souffle with whipped cream.

MRS. 24-INCH WAIST

DEAR MRS.: You're so right, but the souffle is so much more appealing than the walk. The flesh is weak, which is why too many people have too much of it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MRS. THOMAS BONURA (Stokes Studio)

Sheryl Jean Coates Is Bride Of Thomas Bonura

Sheryl Jean Coates and Thomas Bonura exchanged their wedding vows on Saturday, September 7, at 10 a.m. in St. Joseph Church at Nuptial Mass attended by members of the immediate families only. The celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. Father Norman A. Smith, who read the double ring wedding rites. Wedding music was provided by Jerry Elmgren, organist of the First Lutheran Church.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar in a silk organza gown with imported Venetian lace bodice, cap sleeves, with re-embroidery of seed pearls. The lace was also applied in rosettes down the front of the gown and at the hem of the gracefully sweeping train. A float bridal cap held her veil of English silk illusion. A bouquet of white gladioli completed the bridal ensemble.

Louise Reiber of Pittsburgh was the maid of honor in a shocking pink gown with Dior bow headdress and a bouquet of light pink gladioli. The best man was Theodore S. Formica of Hartford, Conn., and the usher was Douglas Coates. The mother of the bride wore a turquoise crepe costume with matching accessories and a pink gladioli corsage. The mother of the groom was in beige with matching accessories and had a yellow gladioli corsage. Mrs. Edith Hotel, grandmother of the bride, in navy with dark accessories, had a white gladioli corsage.

The wedding luncheon was held at the Three Flags Inn where decorations were carried out in pink and white. The three tier wedding cake was topped with fresh pink gladioli from the garden of the bride's grandmother and had greenery encircling its base.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Bonura left on a wedding trip to Canada, the bride traveling in a coat-dress ensemble of off-white knit with brown accessories and wearing a strand of pearls, the gift of her husband's parents. A corsage of deep red gladioli from her grandmother's garden complemented her costume. Mr. and Mrs. Bonura will reside at 78 Legion Drive, Kenmore, N.Y.

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Warren Area High School, and attended Mount Mercy College, Presbyterian University School of Cytotechnology. She is presently employed at Deaconess Hospital's pathology lab. The groom is a graduate of Duquesne University is presently a teaching assistant professor in the Biology Department at the University of New York at Buffalo.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Louise Reiber, Marilyn Norma Nagurney. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Penn Laurel.

Out of town guests attended from Pittsburgh, Hartford, Conn.; Massapequa, L.I., N.Y.; Jamestown, N.Y.

Latter-Day Saints Meeting Attended By Many Leaders

On Saturday evening auxiliary leaders of the Erie District of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) met at the chapel of the Jamestown Branch of the Church at 851 Forest ave., Jamestown. Workshops were conducted for the Priesthood Groups, women's Relief Society, and the Mutual Improvement Association, in preparation for the full schedule of activity which will now be resumed.

District President Walter P. Holbrook of Fredonia, presided at the sessions, assisted by his counselor, Emerson Brocton of Erie.

Attending from the Jamestown-Warren area were Mr. and Mrs. John Duffee, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Stenstrom, Mrs. Carl Larson, Mrs. Axel Mortenson, Mrs. Robert Alspaugh, Mrs.

CRISPY BAKED PEARS
Halve and core 3 Bartlett pears. Dip cut sides of pears in mixture of 3 tablespoons melted butter and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Then dip pears in 1 cup cornflake crumbs. Place pear halves in a shallow baking dish and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes, or until tender. Fill centers of pears with currant jelly. Serve with ham or chicken.

YWCA Membership Kick-Off Meeting Tomorrow Morning

Mrs. Thomas Brown, 1968 YWCA Membership chairman, announces that the YWCA Kick-off meeting is tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at the YWCA Activities Building. The informal coffee hour meeting will initiate the Membership Drive -- which begins Sept. 16 and ends Sept. 30.

The YWCA is a service organization for women and girls of all races, creeds and economic backgrounds. It offers equal opportunities for individual growth and development to all members and participants, through programs set up to meet the needs of women and girls. Various activities are provided according to the needs and desires of those who join. Among them are clubs, classes and interest groups for teenagers and pre-teens as well as older girls and adults.

Present members locally are being solicited for renewals of membership by mail. Potential members will be the only ones to be visited by solicitors.

The Thursday morning meeting promises to be an interesting one -- opens with devotions by Mrs. Robert Gannoe, greetings by Mrs. Donald Spencer, President, instructions for the solicitation by Mrs. Ralph Van Ord also information on the programs and work of the various clubs.

Mrs. T. M. Kottraba is chairman of this Kick-off meeting.

Home-on-the-range freshness

You can almost hear the inviting clang of the spoon-on-skillet, and the voice hollering "come 'n git it!" In Stroehmann Ranch Bread there's a certain special goodness that brings back the joy of "Ranch House" eating. It's partly the hearty, rugged texture. Partly the freshness. Mostly the flavor.

If you haven't tried Stroehmann Sunbeam Ranch Bread on those cowpokes at your ranch, lasso a loaf today. It's full of vitamins and minerals to help keep your ranchers going strong.

Welcome Wagon's Luncheon And Fashion Show, Success

The Welcome Wagon luncheon and fashion show as held last Thursday afternoon at 1:30, at the Penn. Laurel's banquet room, preceded by a social hour and followed by a very brief business meeting, then the fashion show. Mrs. Robert McKeown, chairman of the show, was given a full round of applause for her organization of the event, which had some unforeseen last minute changes.

The fashions from Grants included those for adults, and children as well, and some creations of the wearers themselves. The ladies modeling were Mrs. Linda Blair, Mrs. Lenore Zwald, Mrs. Rosemary Lavey, Mrs. Sylvia Follett, Mrs. Pat Horne, Mrs. Ginny Vatt and Mrs. Del Mead. Mrs. Maryle Marcy was the show's commentator.

The clothes for the younger set were modeled by Joy Berenfield, Laurie Watt, Margie Marchione, Jennifer Horne, Barbara Mead, Scott Smith, Randy Hoskinson, and Andy Lively. All looked charming in their Fall outfits from Grants.

Red Ribbons introduced at the meeting were: Mrs. Edward Barry, Mrs. Joseph Blasko, Mrs. James Brandl, Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. Michael Chase, Mrs. John Cherney, Mrs. L. Thomas Foust, Mrs. Sam Galbo, Mrs. Carl F. Haenel, Mrs. Roy Hoover, Mrs. Richard Mancuso, Mrs. David Martin, Mrs. Chris McAmbley, Mrs. Albert Rohrbaugh, Mrs. Thomas Stewart, Mrs. Robert Vanzandt.

The luncheon tables were centered with little baskets of colored daisies, and for the luncheon itself the choice was either the ham and potatoes salad plate, or chicken a la king. Later there were drawings for the centerpieces and nine ladies each took one home. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Rex Farquharson, Mrs. Michael Mead and Mrs. Edward Vogt Jr.

Pennsylvania Happenings

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Animals for use in medical research are not easy to come by. And in urban centers, short of proper breeding space, it's tougher still.

Research plays a vital role in enhancing man's life and improving his environment — and animals, raised under strict humane and sanitary conditions, are absolutely necessary to advance the tedious research. Antivivisection groups strongly dispute this but theirs is a minority view.

Philadelphia's five medical schools, responsible for making Pennsylvania's largest city a leader in American medicine, may have solved the problem. They formed a non-profit corporation, Federated Medical Resources, which recently purchased a 156-acre farm in Honey Brook Township, Chester County. It's going to be developed into a model animal resource facility for use by Hahnemann Medical College, Jefferson Medical College, Temple University, Woman's Medical College and the University of Pennsylvania.

FMR will support the research projects of the five schools by providing a constant supply of health laboratory animals. By assuming the tough job of breeding animals — all kinds, all sizes — great strides and new breakthroughs may be sped up in the biomedical research facilities.

Don't get the idea that all animals for research have been scarce. For many years researchers have been able to purchase healthy lab animals like mice, rats, guinea pigs and hamsters. But it's costly.

Dogs, rabbits, cats have been tougher to acquire. And the Philadelphia Medical Society reports that city schools "have found it almost impossible to use research animals for such sizes as sheep, goats, swine, cattle and large primates."

Honey Brook Farm seems to be the answer. It will permit use of the larger animals, and their specialized care, in a natural environment. It also will provide ample facilities for other species over long periods of time and allow the breeding of special strains for special research.

Besides the hundreds of animals needed for medical research, about 1,400 dogs are used in Philadelphia every year for teaching and research training. Cats, frogs, rabbits, turtles, mice and rats are needed to educate medical students in the five Philadelphia schools which produce 10 per cent of the nation's doctors.

There's another plus from the farm: it is expected to learn more about diseases transmissible from animal to man, learn more about the diseases that strike animals alone and dogs particularly, and develop animals designed solely for biological research.

A Touch of Old Vienna

Step into Demel's, the famous konditore in Vienna, and you pass into an earlier century. In the heart of the modern, car-jammed Austrian capital, this delicious-smelling pastry shop is still the courtly Vienna of the coach-and-four.

Sparkling chandeliers light up the display tables dazzling with Sachertorte, Guglhupf, Butterteig, and a bouquet of delicate cream-filled backerei or pastries. It is four o'clock, which in Austria is the coffee hour, a time for meeting friends, exchanging gossip, relaxing for the evening ahead—perhaps the opera or a concert.

After the pastries are selected and a comfortable table chosen, the crisp-aproned waitress bustles up with your choice of coffee. The favorite is Viennese Coffee, or Einspanner, full-bodied black coffee with whipped cream, topped with a dash of nutmeg from the silver shaker. For the older guests in the shop, it may be the beloved Kaffee mit Schlag (a familiar term for Schlagobers), a comforting brew of coffee diluted with hot milk, capped with snowy whipped cream.

Your own relaxing hour may vary a bit from the Viennese. Perhaps it is in the early evening when friends drop into see your vacation slides or pictures. Make it an occasion by serving coffee Viennese style in your best cups, with a mound of prepared whipped topping. The coffee can be prepared in a few minutes from a neat Coffee Kit you might keep on the kitchen shelf—a jar of freeze-dried coffee, a box of whipped topping mix, and a jar of nutmegs (well worth the small trouble of grating fresh for each cup of coffee). The freeze-dried coffee, with all the flavor and aroma of freshly brewed coffee, can be made by the potful, a gracious touch in entertaining.

Since coffee lends itself to so many easy party adaptations of every nationality, it can be the hostess' best friend. More ideas for dramatic and interesting coffees are available in a booklet, "Entertaining Ways With Thoroughly Modern Maxim."

VIENNESE COFFEE

(Einspanner)
3 tablespoons freeze-dried coffee
2 cups boiling water
Prepared whipped topping
Dash of nutmeg

Measure coffee into a coffee-pot or server. Add boiling water. Stir. Serve at once topped with whipped topping and sprinkled with nutmeg. Makes 2 cups or 2 or 3 servings.

"SOUPER" LUNCH

Add diced cooked carrots to condensed chicken with rice soup. Serve with peanut butter and raisin sandwich cut in shape of a gingerbread man and a candy apple for dessert.

LUNCH BOX HIGH-LIGHTS

Keep sandwiches for lunch boxes refrigerated as long as possible. Include salad-type sandwiches only if lunch is to be stored in a cool place for a short time. Put hot soup into hot vacuum bottle, wide-mouthed preferably, and don't forget the soup spoon.

FIRST GRADE SOUP

You can appeal to first graders with condensed soup for lunch. Regardless of their food preferences there's a kind to fit every taste. Happily, soup is a natural for increasing nutritional value. Six and seven year-olds show a marked preference for chicken, vegetable, and noodle soups.

LOBSTER POT PARTY

Great simplicity, that's what this recipe has! Heat a can of frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup with 1/3 cup water, stirring. Add 1 cup lobster chunks and 1 tablespoon white wine; reheat. Serve over rice to 4.

AUTUMN FRUIT SALAD

Combine 2 cups thinly sliced, unpeeled green grapes, 1 cup sliced bananas, and 1 cup broken cashew nuts. Toss with enough Honey Cream Dressing to coat lightly. Arrange on salad greens in a bowl. Serve remaining dressing in a separate bowl.

For Honey Cream Dressing, combine 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 cup mayonnaise, and 1/4 cup dairy sour cream. Mix well. Blend in 1/4 cup honey and 2 teaspoons lime juice. Stir in 2 tablespoons minced parsley. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

BREAKFAST BOWL-IN-ONE

In buttered baking dish, alternate layers of thinly sliced fresh Bartlett pears and cornflakes. Coat each separate layer with ginger, brown sugar and dots of butter. Bake for 35 minutes at 350 degrees. Serve warm with milk or heavy cream.

3 In Memoriam
IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of CLYDE L. PIERSON who passed away September 11, 1967.
What we would give if we could only say,
Hello, Dad, in the same old way!
What we would give to clasp your hand,
To hear your voice and see your smile,
That meant so much to us!
Your happy face to see, to sit with you and chat awhile,
Patient, kind and true, no other friend in all the world,
Was ever so true to us.
For all your loving kindness, you asked nothing in return
If all the world deserted us, To you we could turn.
To those who have a father, Treasure him with care,
For you never know his value, Till you see his vacant chair.
Sadly missed by wife, Sons and daughters.
